Comments for Public Posting: The way the city council has managed this problem is unacceptable. Angelinos are losing their jobs at a higher rate than the Great Depression and the best you guys can do is temporary, means-tested rent relief that has to be paid back later? We need an absolute moratorium on all mortgage, rent, and utility payments PERIOD. It is unconscionable for you to expect us to pay these expenses while making no money while the only way to truly stay safe is to stay inside the vast majority of time. Plus, we need you to do something about the mounting tragedy happening in our prisons and jails; people are not able to even properly distance themselves from others let alone get proper medical care; you are sentencing all these people to death and their blood is on your hands. We are supposed to be a sanctuary city and protecting immigrants from being incarcerated, where is the order from city council or the mayor to stop incarcerating people? This is an unprecedented pandemic emergency and you are not treating it as such. We know a sizable portion of the city council are landlords and have material interest in protecting the rights of their own class, the ownership class. But one would hope in this time of crisis they would step up for the well being of all residents of Los Angeles, not just the landed gentry. The working class, undocumented people, those without health insurance, those who are incarcerated, the homeless all need your help and you all have the power to do something if you had the courage to care about human lives over capital. The economy can wait, human lives are at stake.
