Comments for Public Posting: RE: CD8 and Cit of LA : It is a huge mistake, irreparable, to keep trying to control everything in every way. I just read about CD8 Council member trying to make a law to protect the landlords of 10 unit and under buildings with mortgage relief if they agree to not evict and not raise rents. I am a landlord. This is very naive, and is not a solution. Banning landlords from evicting tenants for non payment is not a solution, and then subsidizing the landlord for not being able to pay their bills. And then tying it to their property rights and controlling those. The rule making will never end, and all we end up with is a complicated maze of rules with unintended consequences and constant loss of rights. The tenants already have astounding protections with LARSO capping increases to abysmally low amounts, while costs sky rocket; and now we are freezing those artificially low rents in place, and also making paying rent have no consequence? I'm very disappointed with the local leadership during this time; its not very thoughtful or inclusive, and in fact is usually quite divisive and baiting.

Comments for Public Posting: I am writing to support the legislation proposed by Council Member Marqueece, Council President Emeritus Wesson and Councilmember Bonin. Today, they introduced legislation to protect mom and pop landlords; small business owners whose livelihoods depend on receiving rent from residential units. I support the proposed legislation so it may provide mortgage assistance to owners of residential rental properties on the condition they don't raise rent or evict tenants while receiving subsidy. Mom and pop landlords are just as equally impacted as any other small business during this period. I urge the City to move swiftly on instating this legislation to ensure protections for them. They have worked hard to obtain these properties and deserve the same kind of protection to their livelihoods. They are equally impacted by this unforeseen shut down of our economy!

Comments for Public Posting: Why are airlines exempt from social distancing requirements? This is an outrage. Every other business category- essential or non-essential has to make reasonable accommodations to make it safe for customers-They have to reduce capacity no matter how it affects their bottom line. Why not the airlines? They should not be allowed to fly with more than one person per row. Currently they seat 3 individuals in a five foot span. t in first 2 people in 4 feet. Where is the margin for safety? Air travel is an essential service ; there are no alternatives for those who must travel long distances- Why are airlines not required to try to make it safe?
