Comments for Public Posting: I support the spay/neuter requirement for domestic rabbits however the concern is the serious lack of facilities that actually sterilize rabbits and the cost. I can see this will be a hardship from the get go and it should be a consideration when it comes to penalizing someone. Approx. 15 yrs ago, I found a domestic rabbit in the street. It cost $300 to neuter him, and same scenario then, very few places handle rabbits. Today I started calling just to see what the cost is, there is no readily information on cost and one place said they cannot give prices over the phone - that you would have to come in with the animal. Talk about hardship! Other places don't even pick up the phone and you have to be put on a waiting list. Just wanted to share that dose of reality.
