Honorable Council President Garcetti
City of Los Angeles 200 North Spring Street
Los Angeles, CA 90012

Dear Council President Garcetti:

The recent joint hearing by the City of LA Budget & Finance and Information Technology Committees accepted a recommendation by the Chief Administrative Officer to eliminate the City's Non Profit Lease Subsidy program (Council File 082762). The Lease Subsidy Program currently allows over a hundred nonprofit organizations throughout the City to serve thousands of Angelenos in diverse communities every day by providing a $1.00 a year lease. If approved, this proposal could have a devastating impact on the nonprofit sector of Los Angeles by causing program cancellation, job loss, a reduction in direct revenue and increased urban blight.

Arts for LA, along with a robust coalition of nonprofit leaders working in health and human services have joined together to oppose this proposal. Our request is simple: Move this proposal into the Arts, Parks, Health and Aging Committee so that a full economic impact study and plan of action can be developed to ensure service disruption does not occur.

Without an economic impact study and plan of action to maintain the 85+ facilities currently operated by these non profit agencies General Services will have increased demand on its services. Many organizations, already facing an unprecedented 30% in reduced revenue, are likely to be displaced. Those with month-to-month leases will have greater difficulty raising additional funds. Without an implementation plan, this displacement will result in empty buildings throughout the City that would become derelict, which could further impact property values. It is clear the potential costs of this proposal far outweigh the $1.5 million in anticipated revenue.

These nonprofits have invested thousands of dollars in capital repairs into their city-owned buildings, and can maintain the physical plant for far less than the City would be able to do while providing invaluable health & human services, arts, youth and civic services citywide. The nonprofit sector is a crucial anchor that must remain in place to weather this economic downturn. While we understand the City is facing an unprecedented budget deficit, it cannot abandon the promise it has made to its nonprofit partners. I hope you will support our effort, by opposing this proposal.

Please listen to the voice of the close to three-thousands stakeholders who echo our request and oppose this proposal which would hurt communities throughout Los Angeles. I've attached the individual letters to ensure their voice is included in the council file.

Very best regards,

Danielle Brazell
Executive Director

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I specifically write this request because of my admiration for The Frida Kahlo Theater. The FRIDA KAHLO Theater at the William Reagh Los Angeles Photography Center is one of the two only theatrical spaces committed to the Latino theatre. Over the past 15 years, it has produced over a 100 plays (in English and in Spanish), thousands of workshops for children and adults (in English and in Spanish) in theater, photography, computer animation, dance, painting.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

As a graduate of Yale University's Theater Program, I have found there are far too many venues producing quality work. Having had the distinct honor of being a part of several productions at The Frida Kahlo Theater, one of the organizations which will be affected by this measure, I can say that not only are they producing quality work, but they are bringing it to a community too often priced out of the theater experience at all. To lose the Frida Kahlo, and theaters like it, would be beyond tragic.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

In a time when our school are receiving significant cuts in the visual and performing arts departments, many children depend on these non-profit organizations, such as The Frida Kahlo Theater to provide them with the positive outlets of artistic expression.
We have to do our very best as a community to pull together all our strength, wisdom, and hope for the future of our city that is the mecca, and the heart and soul of where the entertainment arts resides. We have to continue to provide the hard working Angelinos, who have built their lives around helping others and creating endless opportunities for youth and adults alike in furthering their selfless pursuits in creating a community to be proud of.

When I attend a play at a 99-seat house, I usually dine nearby. If the theatre no longer exists, there will be no reason for me to choose to dine in its neighborhood. This is another multiplier effect to consider.

Also, if the properties have to be vacated, they will need on-going maintenance and protection from vandalism, services now provided by their leaseholders.

We love the McGroarty Arts Center in Tujunga and our 7-year-old boy Angus Bailey attends an art class there and he loves it. We might mention that Angus won a Certificate of Recognition signed by Mayor Villaraigosa and dated May 15, 2009; this award was for his artwork in a city-wide poster contest.

In particular, I would like to cite the Odyssey Theater in West Los Angeles, which provides a wonderful variety of theatrical offerings at reasonable prices to young and old alike. Without the subsidy, this wonderful asset would be lost to the LA cultural environment.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

In all likelihood, the organizations involved in the leas program could not operate in the absence of the free rent. And the buildings would probably not be rented at full or even half rental to other businesses.

Thus, the city would lose important cultural and other non-profit organizations which provide indirect income to the city in the forms of other tax revenues.

The amounts the city could make do not justify what would be lost.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. I have attended theatre productions at many of these small theatres , and have seen the number of students and seniors taking part. That shouldn't be lost.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, this change will not raise a substantial amount of money and it will harm the quality of life in our city in so many ways.

I believe that a careful, non-regressive tax, perhaps on certain luxury items, would be a better choice. Please reconsider the options. Closing non-profits is not the best way.

As an employee of a nonprofit theatre that does an extensive amount of community outreach, I see the impact of the arts on youth and the neighborhood every day. It may not be the easiest thing to quantify in numbers or money, but the value of this contribution is undeniable. Every day, young teens from the neighborhoods surrounding these arts organizations can immerse themselves in the arts instead of in gangs or violence. They can learn what it means to be creative, how to use theatrical tools to better communicate, and will eventually become better equipped citizens and members of the work force as a result of having these institutions in their neighborhood.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Please do not stop the $1 lease program. You will spend time and money getting these buildings in shape to rent, and then the economy will turn around and the theater and rest of the arts will never return. This is a short sited approach.

Dear City Council Members (and, especially, Mr. Rosendahl):

I'm forwarding the message, below. I add to it my fervent conviction that arts orgaizations strenthen the city. You must not drive them out of business. They surive on a shoestring as it is. PLEASE DO NOT TAKE AWAY THE $1.00 lease program. You will be doing a disservice to the community if you do.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am writing to request a careful review of the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Hopefully, a full economic analysis will allow you to either eliminate such a change or increase the lease amount to a figure that nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles can pay and still reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Please give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Please keep Los Angeles' cultural arts and other non-profits alive!

As a local student, growing up in Los Angeles, it's hard to find arts in the community that are culturally relevant and affordable. Eliminating these sources would really negatively impact the youth and the local population. The arts have portrayed messages that can be deeply understood, and it has helped to transform me into a more well informed and analytical person. As a voter, that is concerned about the future of young Angelenos as well as my community, I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Council Member,

I am shocked that the city would target community centers such as Mc Groarty Arts Center for cuts when there is so much unconfronted waste in many institutions of "service" in Los Angeles. I see is a system of penalties such as fees, tax increases, and speed traps and very little thought of the quality of life that would keep a middle class family here. We have a disporportionate welfare role, high priced retirement programs well outside the private sector, and public schools that are unusable.

Without parks, libraries, and communty centers why would any professional stay and pay that tab? This is why I regret the day I did not sell my home during the realty delerium and go someplace working people are considered, as they foot the bill. Video games are not culture. Parking lots are not parks. Please consider making a good place to live when budgeting out waste.

As you may have gathered I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

As a resident of Los Angeles and an actress who has performed on the Odyssey Theater stage, among many others, I urge you to consider this plea. It is ironic that the art community is often the first to be shunned in economic downturns, as it is usually in the arts that the community finds solace and hope and encouragement. The Odyssey Theater, in particular, has been a fixture in the theater community for so many years, known for innovative and courageous creativity.

Please think laterally when making these decisions. On paper, in theory, it may seem like an obvious cut back to make. However, when considering the big picture of community and advancement, it is the arts onto which we must hang. A simply look at history will support this idea.

And so it goes...

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

We are so blessed to have our Art Centers, especially the Mc Groarty Arts Center in Tujunga. If our dedicated non profit, FOMAC, was made to pay rent, we would be forced to cut programs and/or close. This center is established, successful, and precious to the City of Los Angeles. It serves people of all ages, who have the opportunity to learn music, drama, visual arts, dance and more, while promoting the legacy of Founding Father, John S. McGroarty, in his landmark home.

I have taken classes at McGroarty Arts Center since I was a girl of 9 years, back in 1962. I now teach music classes there, since 1981, and see firsthand the wonderful impact that this special home and the programs being provided have on our whole community. It is precious oasis in our stress filled city. It must be supported, and not undermined by rent fees.

Please take the proper steps to insure the future of McGroarty Arts Center.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Also, I feel many people have been saved by the arts as they find a place where they belong and can express themselves artistically. This is therapeutic for the artists as well as the audience members. These forms of expression are essential for mental and emotional health for all human beings. Please reconsider the impact this will have on the collective well-being of all of us.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

We have a lot of empty buildings in Los Angeles. I do not think you should take any building away from a non-profit without a signed lease agreement. Los Angeles is not a business friendly city and I wish you'd focus on solving that problem.

This could have a devastating impact on: SPARC, Beyond Baroque, Plaza de La Raza, LA Theatre Works, LATC, Odyssey Theatre, Eagle Rock Center for the Arts, just to name a few.

SPARC is fighting to save LA murals, fighting to save arts funding and now we might be in a fight to save our building too? How much more can the community arts people take?

SPARC has been an extraordinary and good steward of our home (the Old Venice Jail) for 34 years and in 2000 SPARC successfully garnered a 55 year lease meeting all the criteria and guidelines the city set up.

For 34 years SPARC has paid its own utilities, paid for the maintenance and upkeep of the building and provided important community programming for the residents of the City of LA.

Please assure me that SPARC won't lose its home. If we do, it will more than likely be the end of one of LA's most worthy and longstanding multi-cultural community based arts organizations.

It is unreasonable to expect that these facilities will suddenly be filled by outside, non-city and non-nonprofit operations in any kind of short term. Instead, they'll likely close for an unclear length of time, not only severely damaging or destroying the nonprofit currently operating there, but also making the facility a net-negative weight on the city - a building that has to be taken care of that serves no purpose.

In particular, I've been to the Lankershim Arts Center a number of times, and would hate to see that great building and the theatre and gallery that operate there shut down. Don't do this!

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear City Council,

I'm writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. At the very least, I hope you will study the impact that this elimination would have before making rash decisions.

I understand that the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, but nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles bring jobs and services that help our economy.

Reading the list of organizations that would potentially be decimated if they had to pay market rents was sobering. As an avid reader and writer, Beyond Baroque is particularly close to my heart. Their free workshops and performances are a huge benefit to the literary community.

Lummis House and the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts are two institutions that make my neighborhood of Highland Park a great place to live. And I can't imagine what children, homeless people, and other disenfranchised groups would do without the aid of the many social service organizations on the list.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Klein

As someone who works in the arts, I know well that if the $1 lease program is eliminated, many valued arts organizations in our community will be forced close their doors for good. And it's not only the arts organizations that I'm concerned about, but also the many organizations on the list that provide invaluable services to underserved populations like seniors, children and low-income residents.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Many of the organizations that would be affected by this proposed change, , such as the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts, are located in areas where they are the sole providers of affordable arts and cultural services to their communities. As another example, Beyond Baroque, is one of the few literary arts centers in the region and draws audience and participants from the entire city.

These organizations have animated often neglected city-owned spaces with vibrant and relevant arts and cultural programming.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am the Manager of Arts and Culture for the City of Calgary, Alberta, Canada and the former President of the Creative City Network of Canada. The City of Los Angeles has a long and dynamic history of leadership in municipal cultural responsibility, allowing communities to develop and grow using arts and culture. Canadian communities use arts and culture in the same way to build complete communities with engaged citizens.

On behalf of my team and cultural colleagues in my community, I request that City Council re-examine this decision by undertaking the full due diligence review as evidenced by an economic impact study to fully understand the community impacts of this approach.

In a city that touts private sector creativity as a cornerstone of your economy (film sector), it would be incredibly unjust to not provide ordinary citizens of Los Angeles with an equal opportunity to living a robust, creative life.

Sincerely,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Although I don't live in Los Angeles, I have worked there for many years. I work with youth, needy families, churches serving the poor, and others who use services provided by these wonderful, struggling, but dedicated non-profits. Now is not the time to weaken long-time community agencies. People of Los Angeles need their services and need your support!

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

While I understand our City of Los Angeles faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, penalizing nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles is not a wise course of action. Non-profit organizations reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism. Organizations currently benefiting from the $1 lease program including SPARC, SPARC, Beyond Baroque, LA Theatre Works, LATC, Plaza de La Raza, and Eagle Rock Center for the Arts provide cultural, arts and educational opportunities and experiences for many Angelenos citywide. Any anticipated financial savings is certainly not greater than or equal to the value non-profit organizations directly offer the community.

Please give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. Help the city and so many of its citizens benefit from the efficient and community-focused work of non-profits using the $1 lease program.

Public arts organizations are the heart and soul of Los Angeles. It is now generally considered that LA has equaled if not surpassed New York as the arts capital of the United States. Such recognition brings jobs and tourist dollars to LA, as well as a great deal of joy. Please support--and increase--attention to and financing of the arts in LA.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I live in the Venice neighborhood of SPARC and Beyond Baroque. These 2 agencies have had a great impact on me as I have been involved in both throughout my 21 years as a Venetian. Not having these 2 landmark institutions would devastate the neighborhood. They are both the heart of Venice.

The modest subsidy to the arts that these leases represent benefits not only Los Angeles artists but the city's children for whom arts programs are a precious extra curricular activity.

Arts Centers around the city provide crucial economic support for artists who not only live but work for positive change through their art works in neighborhoods such as Highland Park, Eagle Rock, San Pedro, Hollywood and South Central,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Councilpersons:
I am extremely disappointed to learn that the city is considering the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations. The work of the non-profits will not be taken up by the city or anyone else so what is the point of making it harder for them to work on behalf of the citizens of the City of Los Angeles?
While I recognize the economic problems that the city of los angeles faces, it is doubtful that any real income will be generated from the buildings currently being occupied by the non-profits. Comparing the value of the loss of services due to the economic impact on the non-profits versus the possible gain in revenue, I believe it would be a net loss to the city.

While I request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review, you might just consider a common sense approach of the probable outcome of the balance I referenced above. Combined with the minimal if any economic benefit, the loss and cost of restoring the non-profit programs once devastated by a rent increase, it should be obvious this is a bad idea. Furthermore, unless you have staff and resources available to make the economic analysis, it will probably cost the city too much money just to do the economic analysis. Why bother?, when you can just kill the idea now.
Of course you will also have to factor in the lawsuits by the non-profits with leases that have invested thousands in improvements to the leased properties. AS a currently inactive attorney, a can easily see potential lawsuits to the city if this idea is enacted without proper hearings on the one hand and for possible breach of contract on the other.

Sincerely,
Ronald L. Rouda

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear City Council,

I have lived in Los Angeles since 1999. My mother was born here. I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I have worked for and with non-profits in Los Angeles for almost ten years. I often benefit from LA-based non profit services, events, and workshops.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review. It is especially crucial during times of crisis to support grass roots community groups.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities. We need these now more than ever before.

Specifically, I wish to call your attention to the importance of SPARC to the City of Los Angeles. SPARC is nationally and internationally FAMOUS.
SPARC has planned, sponsored and executed hundreds of TOP QUALITY murals and other forms of PUBLIC ART which have brought pride to many communities. SPARC is a vital part of Los Angeles and a great asset, a great attraction. Los Angeles would be making a grave mistake to evict SPARC from the building which it has renovated and brought new life to.

I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls. Nonetheless, nonprofit organizations, such as SPARC, operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry, thus these arts organizations actually generate a bright future for the next generation and help them assist the older generation in sustaining long range community capacity building.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by not all, but some of these organizations within their local communities.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Please don't eliminate the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working for the public interest in Los Angeles. While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in LA reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support the City's largest industry: tourism.

The proposed savings to the city fall far short of the loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities. This is one way that the City of Los Angeles has shown the way for cities across America to take care of the cultural needs of our citizens, especially important at times of economic distress.

Please keep up the good work!

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

My name is Cesar Lopez. I am currently an associate professor at San Diego Mesa College. I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I worked at SPARC in Venice as an intern in the mid-1990s, a staff member in the late-1990s, and served on the Board of Directors in the early 2000s. I first met Judy Baca and the SPARC organization as an undergraduate at USC in 1994. I was influenced by the role of public art in Los Angeles history to go on to complete my doctoral work at UC Berkeley in 2002. The topic of my dissertation came from the historical research that I did as part of a team of USC students working on a mural with Ms. Baca. I have stayed connected to Los Angeles and to my community through SPARC!

I am one of thousands that have been changed by the arts in Los Angeles. Please do not make it harder on arts organizations like SPARC to do the good work that they do for youth and the community on a daily basis in Los Angeles.

Sincerely,
Cesar Lopez, Ph.D.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Council Members,

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

In the last five years I have personally benefitted by my entry into the poetry community of Los Angeles, and seen the benefit it offers so many people who otherwise would not have the outlet that the arts provide. Without affordable public spaces for artists to gather and perform, we lose the wonderful grassroots love of arts that even economically-challenged citizens can partake in. The creative energy that these people have might otherwise turn toward less productive ends: crime. Domestic abuse. Substance abuse. Think about it! Many people who show up are recovering addicts who ply their art as a form of redemption. Don't take that venue away from them.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to SUPPORT the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for SOME of thenonprofit organizations that are not truly working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

BEYOND BAROQUE serves very little community purpose not current served by public coffee houses and bookstore venues. It is a valuable property not serving it's highest and best use with Beyond Baroque, which serves only the personal & petty interests of a very few and minor clique.

By comparison, the CALIFORNIA WRITERS COALITION, has been serving community literacy outreach since 1986 and has not received one cent of LA City support. Is that fair?!

Thank you.

Furthermore, I'd like you to consider this: if you eliminate these forums for creative expression, you fuel outbursts of destructive expression. It has been long established that a citizenry that has freedom of expression, is a citizenry that doesn't live in fear. By shutting down these non-profit venues for free expression, you will be encouraging crime and fear.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am the Executive Director of the California Traditional Music Society (CTMS), a nonprofit based in a City facility in Encino.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

CTMS is an internationally-known and respected nonprofit that has been serving the folk arts community of Los Angeles for 30 years. Through public programs, music in the schools and services to artists, we fulfill our mission to promote, support and encourage participation in the traditional arts of diverse communities throughout L.A.

For the past 11 years, we have been reliable and creative stewards of the City facility in Genesta Park in Encino. We feel very fortunate to have benefitted from this partnership, and hear often from the underserved folk arts community how thankful they are to have a Center for Folk Music for concerts, classes, workshops, jam sessions, gatherings and as basically a folk music home base.

We have renovated the inside of the building in order to make the space as pleasant and useful to the community as possible. We have fostered mutually beneficial relationships with staff at the Department of Parks & Rec (who run the park and nearby community center), local businesses and schools. You could not ask for a more trustworthy or resourceful tennant.

But, we are a small nonprofit in an inhospitable economy. Because of the delay in payment from DCA for our 09-10 grant, we have recently had to sell some of our stocks left to us by a board member who passed away. In other words, our safety net is being eaten away. We are hanging in there, we make the most of every dollar we have and are looking forward to upcoming events like the Equinox Festival in September. But we're definitely on the financial edge.

If we are required to pay rent for the Center, we most likely will be forced to vacate the facility. This has not been in our projected budget for 11 years. Plus, as possible renters, we do not understand why we'd be responsible for maintenance of this 100 year old building. Any landlord is responsible for maintenance. Our situation is made more complicated in that DCA "owns" the inside of this building, while Parks & Rec oversees the outside and the grounds.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Though I no longer live in Los Angeles, I attended college and lived a total of 6 years in the city up until two years ago. During that time I used many of the facilities that will be negatively impacted by this decision. I fear that this is a short-sighted band-aid that has little chance of effecting long-term economic gains, and a short-sighted fix that will irreparably damage the cultural depth of the city. It is harder and more expensive to recreate these cultural centers than it is to continue supporting the wonderful existing centers. I find it hard to believe that the subsequent negative long-term impact on the community, both from a cultural and economic point of view, is worth the short-term gain of a little bit of money.

As one of the world's leading cultural centers, one that depends on the entertainment industry, I find it hard to believe that the city would consider such a damaging act against many of the arts. This city was built on and thrives on art. The city should continue to support these non-profits that encourage new talents, new forms of expression, and the future of what becomes the economic powerhouse of LA.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Hello,
I really hope that the leases can stay as they are for the organizations. As a longtime poet I understand the importance of places like Beyond Baroque that nurture artists. Places that resonate like that often struggle in the midst.
Hope all these places can continue and be a beacon for the coming generations of artists too.
Thanks so much,

It seems as though the social fabric and in fact the social contract of the city is being undone because of the fiscal crisis. Any way to mitigate that would make the city a better place to live!

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Before you get to the form letter that Arts for L.A. crafted, below, and which I agree with and support, I would like to say that, although I don't live in L.A., I do go to Beyond Baroque to hear poetry readings and when I go, I always spend money in L.A. on food and drinks and whatnot. That is to say, these non-profits not only contribute mightily to L.A.'s cultural capital, but, by the people from out of the area they attract, they contribute to L.A.'s tax base. Shut down such venues, and you use that extra revenue.

Now, onto the rest of the letter:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I have personally experienced and witnessed the impact that two of the organizations that would be profoundly affected by this proposal, SPARC and The Japanese American National Museum, have had on the communities of Los Angeles. Both of these organizations make this city a better place to live, and give opportunities for art making and civic dialogue to those who would otherwise never get this chance to participate. Beyond Baroque has been an essential part of the Los Angeles poetry scene for many years. I teach at Moorpark College in Ventura, and have brought many fledgling poets to listen to "the professionals" and to perform their own poems at open mic. Beyond Baroque has been an absolute haven for them and a number have gone on to publish and perform at numerous other venues.

Please submit this proposal for a full hearing in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging .

Budget cuts are affecting everyone, but nonprofits such as Beyond Baroque provide employment and a necessary artistic haven for Los Angelenos from all walks of life.

Without signature organizations such as Beyond Baroque, the City will be so much poorer.

While I understand that you must consider savings for the City, please understand that the loss of these local services means a devastating loss for the whole community.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am an artist and believe that the arts and other public services are necessary to a healthy, flourishing society. I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Los Angeles City Council,

I am the sister of the late Poet-Laureate of Venice, Philomene Long. She would see as anathema, as I do, the removing of Beyond Baroque and other centers for the arts in Los Angeles. No time would be a good time to end centers where the arts flow. This time of economic stress would be much worst. Art is so often demeaned and thought of as frivolous, but art is a very necessary need for our city and our nation. We need art centers more than ever!

I oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. Please don't!

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Nothing is free. The services that are provided to the public, both cultural and social, through the leases are great dollar value exchanges that favor the City and are enduring assets to the profile of the City that far exceed the agreement with these arts and cultural institutions. In the end, The City of Los Angeles gets a great deal for their leasing agreements, it is actually good business. How can people who are paid well to crunch numbers and make decisions, or offer recommendations not see or understand such?

Community identity and local cultural history are tied to most of the sites in peril, in addition to scarce and dwindling opportunities for local at risk youth, seniors, economically depressed or under served community members, to enjoy the benefits of art and culture in their home and community. In their city. It is their city too.

Plaza de la Raza is celebrating it's fortieth year of service to the community as one of the nations leading Latino arts and cultural resources and one of the oldest of it's kind in the country. It has hosted national and international artists, audiences from all aspects of the region, and has been heralded as a safe haven in a national study done on at-risk youth by Yale in 2004. The Mayor himself declared the center a "cultural gem" in the crown of the city.

Happy fortieth anniversary Plaza, now go away.

Is that the message you want to send to the children and constituents of that community? Can you even begin to understand how much more valuable than rent such an institution is to the local community and the at-large region?

What I find so amazing is that there is not one of you on the city council who does not have a story of how a book, a movie, a play, a singer, seeing a show, a concert, a performance or a piece of art somehow impacted you, made you a better human being, impacted your emotion. This is the role of the arts my friends, to stir the best of who we are, even in the worst of times.

So let us end this capricious campaign against the arts as some sort of incidental expense item, indeed we are vital to the city if there is to be a city worth living in. We are not the primary provider of education, but is education truly complete without the arts? We are not the primary provider of health services, but do we have a healthy society without the arts? We are not the primary provider of the economy, but do you know and recognize that the arts make money, the arts generate four dollars for every dollar spent?

To continue to attack the arts in the City gives one the impression that the arts are somehow a burden, yet our humble budget in the bigger budget is dwarfed by such things as car and driver services, commission travel, hospitality, and other sacred elephants not even dared to be mentioned. To continue to attack the arts makes one think there is a purposeful avarice directed at the arts community, perhaps in retaliation for fighting against the TOT?. I do not like to think like that, but it has become clear, attacking the arts deflects from the bigger issues of management and overview, attacking the arts is the work of a bully mentality, and in a city as important and beautiful as the City of Los Angeles, it is paramount to cutting off one's nose to spite the face. End the churlishness of bureaucrats and respond appropriately to the needs of the constituents who elected you.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear People,

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

As a residence of Los Angeles for more than 20 years, I can tell you that arts and non-profit organizations are what give this city its unique appeal and flavor. It may be impossible to rebuild what will be lost if the current lease program is not upheld.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

I live around the corner from SPARC and Beyond Baroque. I can personally attest to the special value organizations like this add to the neighborhood. In these difficult times, I'm certain that many groups like this won't survive. That would be an incomparable loss.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Sincerely,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Art's, in all its possibilities, is a positive role in a persons life. PERIOD. Getting rid of that effects many, not just those who work there, help out, volunteer. But, all those that art touches. There has to be another way around this, other than just a quick snip and removal of something so important to not just a handful of people, but a community!

PLEASE! Please, take the time and think about what will happen if you go through with your decision.

Thank you for your time.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

The arts are as important for health and welfare as any other city service. Nonprofits provide safe places for citizens to engage in important communication and creativity. My membership in PEN USA has been crucial in furthering my career as a writer as well as mentoring underprivileged children without exposure to books and creative writing.

Nonprofits provide jobs and promote educated citizens. The City should do everything to encourage their survival.

As an artist who has contributed several murals and other public commissions to the fabric of the City, I know firsthand the value of nonprofits to support the next generation of voices in the arts. Without them there is no vision of society that is not bought and paid for by commercial interests. These services contribute to the richness of life in Los Angeles, and indeed, provide a vitality to the city that is immeasurable in dollars and cents

I would not have had the opportunities that I recieved from SPARC, at no cost to me anywhere else. I spent three years learning and recieveing full support in all arts and school work as well. Some of my best memories are from this time when no one else would give me a chance SPARC gave it to me. The non profit organizations help tons of kids from the streets find new and different ways to express themselves positively. Taking that away would be not be the best way to clean up Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to voice my opposition to the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

It is unconscionable to me that in this time when our city faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, our leaders would consider elimination of a cost-effective program whose beneficiaries generate hundreds of thousands in revenue for us. LA's nonprofit arts institutions in particular are well documented to provide economic value in their capacity to attract and leverage tourism (our largest industry). They also employ thousands of Angelenos. These critical distinctions merit public support and investment.

Furthermore, the proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services or value of resources and revenue currently generated by these organizations within their local communities.

I request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Most importantly, I urge you, as a leader, to stop this very dangerous proposal dead in its tracks, and encourage the Mayor and CAO to come up w/ budget solutions that do not deny our already dehydrated city of the few droplets left of local culture and life.

This lease program is the difference between cultural vitality -- a reason to celebrate and remain optimistic about LA -- and the wasteland our city will soon become, if somebody doesn't take a leadership stance soon, and say enough is enough.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Every couple of years it seems, Los Angeles finds it necessary to threaten non-profit arts organizations with some sort of proposal or idea that will destroy them or seriously impact some of the finest and most important non-profits in L.A. County. Stop it. Beyond Baroque in particular, remains a remarkable, important and vital part of the Arts community in Los Angeles. Whatever small piece of a temporary band-aid that might result from the cutting of an important program such as this is not the worth the high price it will cost in the long run to forever lose artistic communities.

As a former 19 year resident of Los Angeles County, I urge you to vote against this and any other policies that threaten the survival of non-profit

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

To all members of the honorable Los Angeles City Council,

I am writing in regards to the proposal to riscind the $1 a year lease for L.A.'s non-profit sector, particularly those who serve our arts community.

As the publisher of a self-financed literary magazine for 10 years, arts organizations like Beyond Barque in Venice have been an invaluable resource. Currently, I work 7 nights a week to fund arts projects around Los Angeles and Ventura County, so I feel qualified to speak on behalf of the many of us who work hard at other endeavors to promote the creative abilities of our fellow men and women, and enrich the lives of those around us.

Organizations like Beyond Baroque provide my magazine with a 'selling point' where readers can obtain print copies in its bookstore. The money generated helps our magazine continue its work. We currently employ 7 people on the editorial and print staff, and in today's market, we cannot afford to lose any of our selling points if we intend to keep our staff employed.

Organizations like Beyond Baroque have earned my personal and financial support, and they deserve yours as well. They are an invaluable resource to our arts community and the public at large whose lives we enrich with our reflections on the lifetime we all share.

Please reconsider the proposal to eliminate the $1 a year lease for our non-profits. What these non-profits save in lease they spend in personal capital to enrich our city's vibrant arts scene.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I have attended all the of the organizations that you want to dis-empower. I even know Vera Davis daughter and know the great work that family has done for the Venice area.

In these tough times we need art more than ever. Art is what keeps us civilized and civil. Let's not take away one of the things we can actually afford to patronize. Keep art alive in Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Please rethink the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

It is important and responsible to first conduct a full economic analysis and for local voices to have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Please, please please, I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. We are losing our sense of culture on a daily basis in this country yet the arts are still so important to many. As well, the proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

The city has a beautiful and unique treasure in the many non-profit organizations that lease buildeing that would otherwise be urban blight. Oftentimes it is easy to see the immediate cost benefit to making a decision but the long term costs will erase and short term fiscal benefit.

These creative places that are financed by the non-profit lease program enhance the feeling of a cohesive community. Cohesive communities are financially benificial in multiple ways like reducing crime, promoting walkable neighborhoods and finding solutions for bored youth who may find themselves in trouble.

All this and the added benefit of the services these non-profits provide will be lost. Please see the future. Don't make these drastic cuts. These non-profits are at the heart of community.

IThe proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am currently a citizen of Utah. I would love to see a program like this in place here. We are badly in need of more support for arts funding and community centers. So many people would benefit from places like you are considering shutting down.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

The small amount of money that this will save the City is not worth the loss of culture, positive activities for everyone, jobs and opportunities for many people, including artists who are most hurt by the current economic atmosphere.

Please consider other means of saving and/or salvaging the budget. Some ideas would be to collect on debts owed the City and sale of big properties that are currently not in use which would bring in huge amounts of money.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

This is one place we can't afford to cut. Nonprofits provide essential services to an ever expanding number of needy citizens in this community. Nonprofits providing connection to the Arts is not the least of these, because especially in times like these, we need all the help we can get in getting in touch with our creative side...Innovation is needed, and these programs give space to that possibility.

Personally I have been greatly impacted by Beyond Baroque Literary Arts Center. Beyond Baroque is an amazing resource in Venice and greater Los Angeles, a place for writers to grow their artistry in a environment filled with wonderful teachers and colleagues. Beyond Baroque is a place where students and teachers, young and old can gather to share ideas and thoughts with no worries about how to pay for classes, a place where you can simply create together. It would be a travesty to lose it.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I visit LA every once in a while. One of my favorite things about the city is the vibrant arts community, which you are a part of. Please don't take that away from me.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

The proposal to eliminate the $1.00 lease program for non-profits is extremely shortsighted - first off, how many of these locations will be re-rented in these tough times? How will having an empty space contribute to urban blight and adversely affect the businesses and neighborhoods surrounding these non-profits? Art centers and non-profits contribute to the life and fabric of communities far beyond the dollars of a lease - please consider the cost in dollars of closing them in effect - because as you know many can't afford market rate rents. Looking at the private sector, in our own neighborhood we almost lost the Echo Park Film Center when the landlord a few years ago wanted to raise the rent. Everyone knows we need to cut - but cutting investment in non-profits that serve our communities is foolhardy and I am sure makes no economic sense even in the short run, therefore:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I'm writing to express strong opposition to the City Administrator Office's recommended elimination of the $1 lease program for nonprofit organizations working to advance the public interest within the City of Los Angeles. A full hearing on the fiscal impact, human and community impact this policy will have on the lives of Angelenos is urgently needed before any decision is made.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Arts organizations in particular, such as Venice's Social and Public Arts Resource Center (SPARC), provide important benefits to communities that would not be replaced by privately-run institutions that may take over these spaces, which would likely focus on profit-making ventures benefiting only a select few. My sister worked at SPARC for many years, and we saw first-hand how the center brought art into the lives of many local residents through its own gallery space and city mural projects, as well as nurtured numerous young artists. These young artists considered SPARC to be a resource and a refuge, and many of them went on to pursue productive arts careers and continue SPARC's community arts education traditions.

I urge you to allow the Arts, Parks, Health & Aging Committee to give this proposal careful consideration and scrutiny. The proposed savings to the city -- a short-term fix for a much larger problem -- is not equal to the potential loss of vital community services currently provided by the affected nonprofit organizations.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

These organizations provide positive activities for youth who desperately need something to do with their time. They are a prevention to crime. They are much less expensive than police.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

It is short-sighted and frankly backward to cut any services to the arts which provide healthy and educational alternatives to society's ills. Any form of arts education enhances problem-solving skills that are needed in every aspect of life.

I lived in Los Angeles for more than 35 years and still care about its future and image.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

My husband and I have been subscribers to the Odyssey theater and other venues for over 30 years. The cultural arts of the Los Angeles area are what attracted us here, and what keeps us. Theater IS L.A. and L.A. is theater! Without a vibrant theater life in this city, we will surely lose the movie and TV industry. The long-term implications of that loss on the economy of our area will be disastrous.

I strongly urge you NOT to eliminate the $1.00 per-year leases for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public.

Earlier this evening I was reading how the WPA supported actors and artists and musicians, etc. to create jobs and help bring the country back from the great depression. There are people working for another WPA-type program that is much needed to day. We need to do everything we can to support the arts!

Please help by continuing the $1.00 lease program.

Thank you.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I appreciate the City's extraordinary need to cut expenses but this cut impacting the cultural opportunities in the city should have a full hearing. I have attended performances at the Oddysey Theatre and the facilities are spartan at best so I must presume when the theatre goes out of business the city intends to tear down the bldgs. The theatre cannot raise its prices in this environment and if it did patrons would expect some renovated conveniences which no one can pay for yet.

Please consider who uses these theatres -- the elderly and students and those who likely have suffered significant economic losses. If you must close these art/cultural venues, please do it with some savvy selection, cost/benefit analysis, etc. If you take a sledge hammer to these $1/yr leases, please remember how many jobs will be impacted from actors to concessionaires, and the different taxes that will be lost to the city.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

It is vital to the survial of arts in Los Angeles to keep non-profit artistic spaces open!!!!

Already we see a faltering in what substance there is here in LA, and without quality places like the Odessy Theatre the very little culture we still have will vanish. Art is a useful tool in teaching us abut ourselves and the world around us, past, present, and future. Without art our society will die. We MUST do what is necessary to keep theater alive in Los Angels.

Please do NOTeliminate the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

The bottom line for an already corrupt government is nothing compared to the bottom line of people trying to make a difference in the world. Do the right thing.

My husband and I had been subscribers to the Odyssey Theater since their early days on Bundy. I would hate to think that after all these years, it is now in jeopardy of losing it's lease. We can be proud of the intelligent, provocative and creative productions put on by Ron Rossi and his staff. I am now a widow, but I still love to go to the Odyssey. Please let it continue for many more years. It is a valuable asset to the city of Los Angeles.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, hitting arts organizations--and in many cases potentially destroying their ability to operate--is the wrong way to go. I am a regular theater-goer and long-time supporter of the arts in Los Angeles. I was a resident of Los Angeles for 14 years and still regularly attend theatrical, musical, and other performances in the city. Theaters such as the Odyssey Theatre provide many benefits to our community. Nonprofit organizations such as theaters bring affordable entertainment, education, and art to the people. They reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. Many of these non-profits are squeezed as far as they can go. Programs such as the $1.00 lease program are necessary to their survival, especially in these difficult economic times.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

The arts are needed in our culture. They are the cornerstone of communities. Please help the incredible organizations who are working so hard for our community to stay active during this crucial time in the history of America.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I would also like to add that supporting community groups who serve the children and families in the community saves money before we have to spend more for prisons and correctional institutions. The particular centers that will be effected serve as a life line for the children and the community, and provide a safe and creative haven. It is short sighted to assume that these center will be able to revive in this economy with out government help and support. Please make sure you do not act in haste and consider the price we will pay later.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. This action would have a far reaching effect on the arts and culture across the entire planet -- not just Los Angeles. Let me explain:

I have a link to the Odyssey Theater Ensemble on an Official Fansite that I do for the actor, Norbert Weisser. He is one of the founding members of the Odyssey Theater along with Ron Sossi. This website receives dozens of hits daily from all over the world, some days many more than that. I have a page on that site dedicated to a play that is currently playing at this theater. There is incredible interest in the play, the reviews and the general culture scene of Los Angeles -- and not just from the people that live in the area. Your proposal would have far-reaching, global consequences. People everywhere need and crave culture -- whether or not the visitors to the Norbert Weisser website live in Los Angeles or not, they are interested in the cultural scene of the city.

Additionally, there are those of us that live in areas that I call "Cultural Dead Zones." I live in such an area. If it wasn't for being able to experience the culture of another area vicariously such as the Los Angeles theater scene, I would have very little exposure to great plays, alternative theater and other forms of important art.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. I can tell you that there are several people from Wahington State that travel regularly to Los Angeles specifically because of the cultural opportunities available to them that are lacking here. Do not let Los Angeles be turned into a cultural dead zone.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Please consider the global impact of your actions, instead of looking at a quick fix for an economy that is already turning the corner.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Ladies and Gentlemen of our City Countil:

It has been brought to my attention- the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles, and I am writing to oppose.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. With the chaos and mayhem already left by the flailing economy, job shortages and cuts in pay, does this not make the overall situation worse!? If the masses do not have the support of their community and local organizations to turn to in these hard times, then will they not all turn to the streets and graven the problems at large?

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration before making this a final decision. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Thank you for your time and attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,
Wendy Wu

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Some arts organizations would survive without the lease program. Many others would not. These arts organizations don't just make LA a great cultural place, they generate sales, provide opportunities, create community, keep communities more safe and whole. We can't afford to have just public safety.

I oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I live in nearby Inglewood but often work in LA and would be willing to pay some kind of user/commuter fee to offset this.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Councilpeople,

I am the founding chair of Otis College of Art and Design's MFA in Public Practice program, and a long time artist, writer, and academic. Among other accomplishments, I was the dean of fine arts at California College of the Arts in San Francisco and a founding faculty of California State University at Monterey Bay.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations in Los Angeles, and request that the proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles provide jobs, reduce urban blight, and support tourism, LA's largest industry. More important, they record and represent the major cultural contributions to Los Angeles, one of the most vibrantly diverse cities in the United States.

As someone who has represented Los Angeles at the Pompidou Exhibition attended by Councilwoman Hahn, and represents Los Angeles multiple times yearly in presentations throughout the world, I beg you not to undermine this rich heritage.

As a college professor who routinely sends young students into greater Los Angeles to intern in, and collaborate with, these organizations, I urge you to consider the long term impact of a decision to cut the yearly budgets of organizations that have heroically sustained themselves over these many years--at great sacrifice by dedicated artists.

At a time when Los Angeles is becoming a respected art center worldwide, for not only its large entertainment industry but for its visual and community arts, I hope you will preserve these vital institutions that offer incredible educational, historical, and cultural benefit to this city. The Social and Public Art Resource Center, for example, housed in the old Venice jail, is a destination point for many international visitors who know of its work and that of its founder/artistic director, Professor Judith Baca - work that is literally recognized in publications, exhibitions, and presentations around the world. SPARC has survived recessions and economic downturns and closure for over 30 years, and been acknowledged by the Ford Foundation, among many others, for the excellence of this work and its longevity.

I urge you to give this proposal the thumbs down as you review our programs in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities and, indeed, worldwide. The urge to recoup what is, relatively speaking, a small financial return, will yield massive negative results in terms of Los Angeles culture and international presence.

Sincerely

Suzanne Lacy

As far as I am concerned every politician should be put on minimum wage. Saving money over the people's salvation, shame on you. Isn't it about time you stopped addressing the bills for your bureaucratic incompetance to the poeple and start addressing the concerns and content of the peoples right to life liberty and the pursuit of happiness? Who's working for whom here? If there are any cuts it's the politicians who must make the sacrifice NOT THE PEOPLE who compensate you quite well for your efforts!

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I work with Virginia Avenue Project. We mentor kids in theater and the arts to keep them on the right path. This has been a highly effective program, with all of our kids graduating highschool and most going on to college. One alumni is now working in the White House.

I am writing to request that the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit theaters receive a full economic analysis and complete review. This kind of cut might produce a puny initial savings, but ultimately it would be a very expensive choice.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am forwarding a form letter but adding some personal information. I live on the Westside and have been to many performances at the Odyssey Theater. They bring outstanding plays to the community at a very reasonable cost.
I'm not sure that withdrawing their $1/year rent would result in any great economic benefit for the city and would result in hardship for many of us that could not afford the Ahmanson prices.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I have been attending performances at various iterations of The Odyssey Theatre for nearly 40 years. While we moved out of L.A. nearly 20 years ago, The Odyssey Theatre continually draws us back to see creative, special theatre. When we come to town for these performances, we eat dinner in the area, and have frequently spent the night and "made it a weekend." I would venture to say that there are more positives than negatives into keeping this internationally renowned institution open and thriving in L.A.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Thank you.

Everywhere I drive there are "for Lease" signs and the building stay unleased. If we start closing down our theaters, parks, etc. than I see a dying city with no life. It is very sad how our money has been mishandled and now our state is suffering. Please don't make it worse by taking away our leisure time activities which is so important to the welfare of all of us. Without theater, parks and the arts, I fear for our country. What is left..Please please think carefully on this matter

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Short-sightedness seems to be a disease that comes with fiscal crises. Not supporting non-profit organizations will have dire consequences to the reputation of the 2nd largest city in the country. Do you really think that shutting down these facilities will help clean up the budget mess? To put it bluntly...it's ludicrous. We know that hard choices are going to have to be made, but if this proposal goes through, it will end up costing the city not only in quality of life, but monies as well. Most of the buildings were unrentable in the first place, that why they were offered to non-profits. So, I am writing to you to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

More importantly, Since this space cannot fully address the ramifications, I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

The form letter is below, and I agree with it. I want to add a personal note here.

I just graduated from USC -- earlier today, in fact. I also just got hired at the Odyssey Theatre Ensemble, one of the companies that would be killed by this elimination. It may sound selfish, but I really want to keep this job. It's real work in a field I love, and to have that taken away by this decision, which is ill-informed at best, would be terrible.

If this plan goes into action, it will dismantle the cultural core that is pivotal to Los Angeles' character. Arts organizations that have been around for over twenty-five, thirty years, such as SPARC, Beyond Baroque, and others will lose their home if you vote on the short-sightedness of the plan. Therefore, I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. I enjoy going to the theater and regularly attend the Odyssey Theater as well as other arts organizations that would be affected by this proposal. The Odyssey Theater contributes a significant amount to the cultural life of Los Angeles, with excellent productions of all types. I live on the westside of Los Angeles, and the Odyssey Theater is a major contributor to the cultrual and artistic life in this area of the city. It would be detrimental to the long-term cultural and artistic life of Los Angeles to lose this theater and other fine arts organizations in the city.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Enough cuts are being made through out the city and the state. Let's leave this public service alone. Non-profits have a hard enough time trying to stay in business they do tremendous work that is rarely recognized and are always on the search for funding, why make it that much harder for them?

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I'm adding to the suggested boiler plate below, and addressing (I'm guessing - with the possible exception of Smith - who I don't know much about) everyone but Zine (I hope). What in the world are you people thinking? Do you live in such a bubble that you do not see the harm that you are doing to the citizenry and area? Perhaps you ARE all simply too precious and in bed with the unions to wake up, get a conscience, and behave like sentient beings.

That said - I tender the following - as it has a direct impact on several projects and groups that I'm involved in, and I would hate to see what little real culture and art is left behind in LA wane even further than it already has due to wrong headed and short sighted decisions.

I personally enjoy the Odyssey, a great group of professional and gifted artist the present great theatre in my neighborhood at prices that everyone can afford including my teenage sons. The building they use, is hard to imagine will be any asset to anyone else. For in the hands of this organization it turns into a fantastic asset for me and many like me. The trade-offs deserve a serious second consideration, and a deeper investigation of what the benefit will be. The loss we know - it will be unforgivable.

I have been a faithful attendee at the California Traditional Music sessions on Sundays. The opportunity to play and listen to music in a live setting is a unique expereince and one that is most vital to keep the soul of Los Angeles alive.

The buidling where this wonderful music is played is in danger. Both musicians and audiences would suffer if this occurred.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

My husband & I have been patrons at the Odyssey for almost four decades watching our donations be transformed into live theatre, outreach programs, educational opportunities as well as providing the venue in which talented actors and artists could practice their crafts, enhance their abilities and return stimulating performances to the Los Angeles community. The Odyssey Theatre participated in the 1984 Olympic Program with their award winning production of 'Edmond.'

The arts are universal languages that assist in drawing together a diverse population such as exists in Los Angeles. It would be a tragedy for the Council to rescind its support of theatre and art with unreasonable rental increases, especially in view of the fact that the majority of buildings participating in the program would not achieve the anticipated new market rental rates.

The conduct of affairs in Los Angeles has already driven businesses and individuals from this city. The retraction of the 'Nonprofit Lease Subsidy' will cause the arts and philanthropy to exit as well. A substantially reduced 'quality of city life' will be the end result for all of us who do remain as residents of this once flourishing city.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I have been coming to and enjoying productions at the Odyssey Theatre for decades, and hope that they will not be forced to close due to a significant increase in their yearly rent. Even if all the seats at the Odyssey Theatre were sold to all their shows, they would not raise enough money to pay for market rents (my understanding is that the Odyssey Theatre is barely breaking even now). In my opinion, this and other theatres are significantly contributing to the cultural health of Los Angeles. Also the Odyssey Theatre building is not really set up for other groups or organizations, so I am fearful that if rents are raised, the Odyssey will close, the community will lose a cultural gem, and the building will sit empty for years! That in my opinion is a real lose-lose situation!

I am therefore writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

It's my opinion that if a theatre can't pay their rent and need to receive a $1 a year lease program they need to rethink their casting and program schedule to draw in more patrons. Perhaps they should move somewhere they can afford to do "unprofitable works" or go out of business. That is how "BUSINESS" works.
THANKS,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing from the UK, where the adventurous and interesting programmes that these small theatres produce are well known- It is clear that activities of this kind are vital to the life and soul of communities and have a cohesive effect on the young in particular, giving them occupations that are worthy instead of hanging about the streets. Here in Great Britain these activities are considered vital to the health of all communities and it seems very short sighted of the CAO to recommend the demise of said instititutions with no plan B to replace them. it is not exactly a great financial loss to keep them going. Please reconsider this rash decision
I am therefore writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

It costs double when the communities fall apart- these are exactly the activities that should be encouraged !

I am currently an actor that performs regularly at the Frida Kahlo Theater. This is the only venue that I have available to express myself. Also, the majority of the plays that we perform to the community are subjet matter that are enpowering for our community and that bring a positive message. Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Since 1971, I have made a literary home at Beyond Baroque Foundation in Venice. As a poet, B.B. has offered me a place for my work, and, also, very importantly, a place to join with other writers to improve our individual work and to create community. This admirable place deserves to continue its history of service to all the greater Los Angeles (and beyond) literary community.

Many thanks for your attention to this letter and to helping our non-profits.

Sincerely,

Holly Prado

Non-profit programs, especially in the arts, has influenced and touched my life in so many ways. I had many emotional problems and a hostile home life as a child; I would not be as successful or self-confident as I am today without non-profit organizations stepping up and offering me a life beyond home. Please help these wonderful organizations focus on what's most important: their mission to save people through their programs, not having to worry more about financing their leases.

Thank you.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to express my shock and horror at the recent proposals regarding support for the arts in Los Angeles, specifically the redirection of funding away from the projects recommended by your grants panel to four of the mayor's pet projects and the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I believe the grant program and the lease program are important to the cultural life of this city and contribute significantly to making LA such a great place to live and raise families. I ask that the mayor's questionable proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, I believe that the nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles give back so much more than they take. (Would that the same could be said for so much that is budgeted.) Arts organizations reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos, support tourism and give LA the sense of community that it so often lacks.

Please examine give these proposals carefully. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I've participated in a number of programs and events sponcered by these non profits at city institutions. I've sen the huge positive impact that they have on the City. It's far more than the subsity the city provides. One tht had a huge impact on me, was the petry workshop put on at Beyond Baroke. It resulted in me becoming a poet. But the pay off isn't only a personal one, but one I've payed back with voluntter work in schools and increasing literacy in LA, which has a huge impact.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Beyond Baroque's importance to the nation's poetry community cannot be underestimated. This long-established cultural landmark is famous for being the only venue in Los Angeles that reliably serves great poetry all the time. It attracts poets like my husband and me to twice a year to your town, where we drop more money than we can afford. You can't afford not to keep it flourishing.

I am a poet living and working in Los Angeles. My first book was published by Beyond Baroque, I have worked for SPARC, I read at Eagle Rock Center and two poets I have published read there. I have a prestigious COLA Fellowship. Where would I be without the help of these community arts centers? Where would most local writers and artists be--people who love this city and love making it the center of their work--without the community bases from which to test and grow in their art form? Nothing will be gained from cutting even more from our common life.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

These organizations have a huge impact on our lives, and are as important to the culture as any other services.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Folks,
I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. The contribution these organizations make far out weigh their cost to the city. It will be short sighted to close these now.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.
Please increase taxes for all of us to keep these programs alive. I do not mind paying for them. They enrich this city. It is the people that count. Please tax the citizens and the bussinesses that prosper so much here in our beloved Los Angeles.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

This is ridiculous. When in dire straits, why does government insist on taking from those who already have so little? Why are your sights set on cutting the organizations that have the least influence, and the least ability to fight these un-thought out measures? Why!?

These short-term measures will have long-term disastrous consequences that will cannibalize the already fragile culture infrastructure of this city. Do you really think that once the economy rebounds that Big Business and Hollywood will help restore the modest stakes that small non-profits arts organizations have in this city? Do you really think that we artists will just be able start our operations back up from where we halted in 2010? Do you really think it's that easy? Do you realize how much momentum, how much support, how much culture will be lost?

This is despicable. Please read below and dismiss this digusting attempt to purge our city of the arts.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Loss of such services can usually be linked to future remedial expenses that exceed the short-term savings. It's certainly worth examining!

These organizations operate on such a shoe-string that a change in the lease would no doubt force these organizations to close, leaving abandoned buildings and weaker neighborhoods.

My family regularly takes advantage of events at the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts and Barnsdall Arts Park. We attend theaters all the time and take our daughter and her friends. I can only guess at how many would have to clothes

Further, the positive force these organizations provide is a another way of providing safety. the presence of police is not the only way a community stays safe; they stay safe through the presence of community arts organizations.

While it is true that Los Angeles faces unprecedented budget shortfalls it is short-sighted to reduce support for nonprofit organizations. The contributions of such entities are far greater than the costs the entail. They reduce urban blight by employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Please give careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging before taking such drastic, misguided action. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Assuming that most non-profits cannot afford fair market rents, the buildings they now occupy will sit empty (and end up costing the city for security and additional maintenance).

That is, the proposed savings may actually be an additional expense.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

As a lifetime L.A. City resident, taxpayer, voter and business owner I very strongly oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles!

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Good day City Counsel. I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review. Over the past several years, the arts have undergone serious degradation in their ability to provide positive, society benefitting programs/outlets to teens, seniors, adults and children. One more nail in the proverbial coffin of this very necessary societal balancing tool is this CAO's proposal.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Barnsdall Park, in particular is the home to the City's Municipal Art Gallery and the jewel in the crown jewel, the Hollyhock House. It is also home to a great mix of socio-ecomnomic status families who benefit greatly and also benefit those around them with the arts taught at the Barnsdall Art Center and Junior Art Center, which will also be subject to this cost-raising proposed lease.

Aline Barnsdall, when she was alive donated those prime 11 acres in Hollywood to the City, provided they get used for art purposes. She was there for the dedication of the Barnsdall Art Center in 1946 and wanted the maids and the children of the neighborhood to experience education in the arts in small classes, usually reserved for wealthy people. Thus was community arts born in LA. If LA, which depends on the arts cannot supoort low cost high quality programs for the 4,000,000 who live here, who will?

These art centers attract folks from every zip code. I live in Bel Air. I got personally involved because my wife, trained in NY as a painter, went to classes at Barnsdall to apply her arts education to clay and jewelry, Now she circulates money back into the local economy, by teaching art, by dragging us to local shows, where we buy and support art and arts organizations, and by selling some of her work, not to mention the thousands we spend on art openings and wine and eating out.

Art motivates a better life for the city and the residents of the City.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

You need to have a full hearing, release a financial impact report, and allow public comment on the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofits in Los Angeles

Nonprofits in Los Angeles employ thousands of people. This proposed change would put many of them, including myself, out of work. How can you expect nonprofits, who by definition do not make a PROFIT, to have enough cashflow and reserve to suddenly cover such a tall order of bills that, today, are mostly, if not completely paid by the City?

I understand that the City is broke. I understand that the City cannot afford to give nonprofits a free ride. But these changes you propose cannot take place overnight. They need to be phased in slowly, and the nonprofits need adequate warning. The public needs adequate warning.

I work for a nonprofit arts center that serves a few thousand community members each year. We offer affordable art classes to children and adults, and we allow many low income families to take classes for free. I do not make market rate salary. None of my coworkers do. We are all here because we want to keep the arts in this community and make arts accessible to everyone. If you suddenly require us to pay for our building, all utilities, and all maintenance costs, we would be in very big trouble. We would have to charge higher class fees, we would not be able to pay the class fees for low-income students, we would have to cut our already small staff (only three fulltime). We may very well have to close if you suddenly require us to pay all of these bills, with no warning, with no public comment, with no proof that our petty rent monies would do much of anything for L.A.'s budget problems.

Give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations, such as the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts, provide wonderful services to the community. Last year my six year old daughter participated in the ERCA Summer Arts Camp. She was introduced to many different styles and mediums and she came home with incredible works of art. This experience not only enriched her cultural literacy but built her self esteem as well.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Thank you,

The Center for the Arts in Eagle Rock adds so much to our part of the city. They offer many programs for kids and adults and add to the quality of our community. Barnsdall Art Park also has numerous arts programs that benefit the kids and adults in the community too. Non-profit organizations like these do not need more bills to pay. I already donate time and art at fundraiser auctions so that these organizations can stay alive - do not put more burdens on their already stretched budgets.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos, provide low cost and in some cases free arts classes to city youth, and support tourism, LA's largest industry. I live in Eagle Rock. The arts and educational programming the Center for the Arts has provided to my family has enriched our lives, broaded our minds and lifted our spirits -- these are essential services and in a crisis economy they become even more important! Eliminating the $1 lease program without full review and dialogue is unfair and would be devastating to the Center and other arts organizations who have participated in the program.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I wanted to add a note in particular support of Beyond Baroque, one of Los Angeles's oldest literary arts centers, located in Venice. Beyond Baroque hosts dozens of readings, workshops and other events every year, and is a vibrant center of literary activity. The organization is a non-profit and the space would very likely disappear if they were to lose their nonprofit lease subsidy. Please do everything you can to support the arts organizations that are, in a very real way, the heart of this city.

Respectfully,

The nonprofit literary organization Beyond Baroque played a major part of my Los Angeles experience and cultural education. In fact, you could argue that it was this institution that laid the basis for my subsequent career in the arts - as a researcher, book editor and finally, assistant to and eventually manager of the estate of the internationally known Los Angeles-based artist Jason Rhoades. As the manager of Jason's two Los Angeles production studios, I hired dozens of emerging artists who worked under the tutelage of Mr. Rhoades - and we purchased a majority of our materials form local businesses.

My story is undoubtably one of thousands in which a Los Angeles nonprofit organization provided the groundwork for a career in the arts that eventually gives back to the L.A. community in a way that is not easily quantifiable, but which adds to the both the culture AND economy of the region.

Please give this action some more serious consideration and listen to the voices of those of us who have not only benefited from these arts subsidies, but have stayed here and used these opportunities to give back to the city in myriad ways.

thank you

As a resident of Venice I have attended many events at Beyond Baroque. I consider it one of the outstanding organizations in the area, and it really makes Venice the unique and wonderful place that it is. So, do not abruptly raise their rents and endanger their future.

The City cannot just cut off non-profit organizations at a moment's notice and expect them to suddenly make up a huge short-fall. As an experienced small business owner, I know from first hand experience that a dramatic rent increase can kill any enterprise or organization almost overnight. Don't kill off more than a 100 valuable organizations with a hasty scheme to raise revenue. If you act:Do No Harm.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I live in Eagle Rock, and have long enjoyed the benefits of having a local non profit arts organization. The group, Center for the Arts Eagle Rock, is a cornerstone of the community. They offer reasonably priced classes for kids and a summer arts camp, a music festival, an arts exhibition program amongst other programming. I cannot imagine they will survive if the lease program is eliminated. This would be a huge tragedy. A city without the arts is no city at all.

Los Angeles is known as an international arts center. To undermine the survival of arts nonprofits, and to deny our city's kids the chance to learn about the arts, will set LA back significantly. I am committed to the long-term survival of organizations that depend on city support. They ensure that Los Angeles communities remain culturally rich, they provide jobs, they support programming that bolsters local businesses, and they help maintain LA's reputation as a culturally-rich metropolis.

Please do not implement this. We all will suffer for it.

Thank you for your attention to this issue.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

As a past president of the literary rights organization PEN USA, I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. It will adversely impact important organizations like Beyond Baroque and Center for the Arts, Eagle Rock, which not only provide their own programs but provide space for other organizations that have a positive impact on the lives of many, many Angelenos.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Hello,
My name is Jasmine Orpilla and I am an arts educator who literally thrives on such creative organizations as LATC, Eagle Rock's Ctr for the Arts/SASSAS, SPARC and Beyond Baroque.These organizations provide the lifeblood of our local communities, both economically, socially and creatively.I witness this creative connection first-hand, everyday, with the families and children I artistically work with at these nonprofit organizations.
I am writing to WHOLEHEARTEDLY oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a FULL ECONOMIC ANALYSIS and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

I understand and am PERSONALLY AFFECTED by the City of LA's unprecedented budget shortfalls; yet I can attest to the fact that nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support cultural tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to please give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is NOT EQUAL to the potential LOSS of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Sincerely,
Jasmine Orpilla

Personally, the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts has been a place for me to develop my experimental music at the Soundshoppe events sponsored by SASSAS. Without his support, I wouldn't be able to afford a space to develop this artform and communicate with others in my field.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1 lease program for nonprofit organizations.

i currently volunteer my free time with three local non-profits, and i see how they directly benfit the most needful in our communities.

if we eliminate the public's access to these facilities, their needs are most likely going to fall back on the public sector in more expensive ways. these non-profit organizations are inspiring a lot of free labor and goodwill, creating services that would be much more expensive by other means.

in the least, there should be a full hearing in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I am a former resident of Los Angeles and still a part of its art scene there, and return frequently to interact with its community and arts spaces. In particular, a place that I am fond of is Beyond Baroque, a remarkable venue for art, literature, poetry, and music that is a national and city treasure, made possible by the city's generosity.

The CAO's lease program, while on the surface seeming to "waste" money, really does just the opposite: inject money into city businesses. Without, say, Beyond Baroque, a number of literary figures in Los Angeles would likely not live here, without the community they need and the gathering spot for that community. These people live in LA, pay taxes, frequent other establishments, and live good, hard-working lives. $1 a year is a small price to pay for the city, often for spaces that would not be easily developed or used for otherwise useful purposes.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I cannot urge you enough to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities. While I understand as much as anyone how these tough economic times warrant action by the city, this is not the way to do it. The harm imposed on these arts organizations radiates out into the general public, affecting all the citizens of Los Angeles, especially when they need these facilities the most. Please do not end this program!

Sincerely and respectfully,
Jeff Ostergren

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

For organizations already reeling from cuts to their funding from the City and other philanthropic resources, as well as diminished income due to issues of financial constraint amongst their clientele or audience, this could be a death knell.

Please think this through to come up with a solution that is fair and reasonable for all parties.

Thank you.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's proposed elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I come into town to visit family but I always check out web sites and attend all the functions that I can, especially at Beyond Baroque. Those functions often become the highlight of my trips. My wife really gets into the family stuff, but I get into the LA arts and culture activities. During last months visit I started selecting and planning visits to LA art museums, also. You could make a few dollars on some leases, but you would also kill many worthwhile organizations that serve the public interest of locals and promote tourists to stay, pay and play.

I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls. However, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and complete review before the Arts, Parks, Health & Aging Committee. They need to carefully consider the proposed savings to the city against the potential loss of services which are currently provided by these organizations.

It is like cutting down trees in parks so you do not have to pay to rake the leaves in the fall. Or spraying herbicides once a year on park grassy areas would be less costly than regularly cutting the lawns.

Parks without trees and grass are vacant lots. Cities without arts and culture are ghettos. I realize you face hard budget decisions, but this sounds like penny wise and pound foolishness to me. Angelenos and tourists are going to be the losers.

I have been either a volunteer or a staff member of the California Traditional Music Society since its inception some 20 years ago. It has provided the City of LA and its inhabitants an invaluable opportunity to participate in learning traditional music (dance and storytelling). It provides not just exposure to this music, but allows participation in actually learning to play the music (learn the dances and/or learn to tell stories) My husband and I met due to our mutual love of traditional music and our children play instruments due to their early exposure.

Having grown up in Los Angeles, attended public schools there (Fairfax High, class of Summer 1964), I know the city well and I know the changes it has undergone since.
I am a writer with ten published books. Beyond Baroque is THE most important place for writers, both local and visiting, to read their work and conjoin with other writers and the public at large. I have given readings there many times, and look forward to doing so in the future. Please help save this and other important arts venues.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Though I am not a resident of the City of Los Angeles, non-profits like Beyond Baroque play a key role in my life and the lives of many others. It is difficult to imagine how collecting market rents from these non-profits would significantly improve the financial situation of Los Angeles. Doing so would cause many of these organizations to go under, and the benefits they give society to disappear.

Please consider the fact that, beyond the hyperbole about such institutions being cultural treasures, Beyond Baroque and other nonprofits these organizations provide much-needed services, including education, to many underserved communities at the grassroots level throughout Los Angeles. I worked for four years to help secure the lease for Beyond Baroque Literary Arts Center, and I know for a fact that a large population of seniors, students, homeless, at-risk youth, immigrants of all nationalities, and artists have received immense benefits (from free literary events to free writing workshops and publication experience and credits) because Beyond Baroque has been able to flourish in the heart of its Venice home.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Respectfully submitted to the Los Angeles City Council, on whom we depend for true, fair and honest leadership,
To whom it DOES concern;
I am writing on behalf of nearly 200 members of the San Fernando Valley Art Club who have recently undertaken the task of honoring those fantastic visionary members of our club since its inception in 1943.

Oddly, we have decided to find a permanent home after meeting in various recreational centers for all of these years. As president I find that we are missing much of our legacy because we don't have a permanent home. Boxes of archived information have been lost in moldy garages. Paintings go unmissed because there is no place to hang them. We search for exhibit halls and workshop rooms because we have no central place to call our own.

Why is this important? The paintings created by the previous generations of our club belong to all of us in our Angeleno community. These paintings ARE the archives that tell us who came before us to make our life, our culture as richly diversified as it has become today. We are a great nation, a great state and a truley rich and great city. Richness portrayed in paintings of our struggles to live, thrive and develope as a people. Further, We have come from a tradition of genius proclaimed in the infamous tradition of the California plein aire painters.

This tradition of painting reflects the many orange groves of the San Fernando Valley, the movie industry. The immigrant struggle. All of these and many more cultural fires have formed us as a people. Created a steel stronger than an economic decline, and we feel that the time has come to put down roots and create a true foundation by giving our legacy a permanent building.

I find it ironically like the timing of a Hollywood movie script, that we are beginning our search for a permanent home at the very time these leases are being stripped away from the non-profit sector. It's especially ironic that the very people who give so much as volunteers are being asked to spend money to do so. We are wealthy with compassion, talent and generosity of time, not money.

As volunteers we build our culture up. we paint, and meet and encourage one another to continue, to document life as we know it. I am not only talking about the artists who pick up a brush, but the artist who yearns to express without having ever done so. The person who works, or has just lost a job who yearns for something beautiful in a life full of pain. These paintings and workshops, and exhibits bring back something of beauty while teaching about our heritage. They give our community as a whole a sense of pride and give individuals a sense of hope.

The arts have been stripped out of our schools, please don't strip them out of our communities. The arts give so much to those who have so little. Art is the lifeblood of the spirit. Please don't take that away. For, by taking away the possibility of a permanent home our legacy will be lost to our community. Just when we had hope to find an affordable home for an arts center it seems to be taken away. Thousands of participants have benefited from our exhibits and workshops with thousands more to benefit with an art center formed on the foundation of our legacy and cultural heritage. Jobs will be created, benefitting part and full time staff as well as those who come through our open doors.

Diverse multi-ethnic communities and ages make up our membership/volunteers offering workshops, demonstrations and supportive community programs. A permanent location would allow us to develope funding programs that will contribute to paid staff and many more jobs for the community. Without the $1 lease program we may never have a permanent home.

For 67 years our club has lost and rebuilt it's heritage. Now the push is on to regain and give back the legacy... but with few donations and few grants how will we ever afford a place to call home? Perhaps the time is now, for the council to support its volunteers. We are cheerleaders for the people. Encouragers. The "friendliest club" in town, an eclectic group of artists, constantly rebuilding for the sake of spiritual lifeblood: art.

Please reconsider and allow a full hearing for the Nonprofit Lease Subsidy Proposal, so we can prove our validity and substantiate our value to the community. These days are tough for the average citizen, but even tougher for the nonprofit organizations that depend on them for donations. Please don't take our home away from us, for by doing so you take away our ability to share our legacy with those who own it with us.

Sincerely,
Michelle Nosco, president
San Fernando Valley Art Club

I have worked for over 25 years in Los Angeles as a freelance artist for many LA based design and construction firms, have been a stake holder member on the Encino Neighborhood Councils committee for Parks and Open Spaces, have volunteered by creating and sponsoring supportive community events for the LA Parks and Rec to benefit the Sepulveda Basin Wildlife Refuge with the Arts For Earth Foundation, as it's president. Arts For Earth Foundation has participated in the Mayors Day of Service to honor it's volunteers in Chatsworth as well as having created a huge 15 foot high by 40 foot wide inspirational mural in the AADAP counseling facility on Crenshaw (Asian American Drug Abuse Program) : one of the most effective agencies to receive commendation in the Mayors War Against Gangs, Drugs and Crime.

p.p.s.
As president of SFVAC I have recently initiated a search for the right municipal building, vacant and in need of maintenance. We were in hopes that for the cost of utilities, maintenance and $1 we could provide something that money can't buy: a rich cultural heritage visible in the legacy that we as artists reflect back to our community. This is the best and most economical deal the city has ever been offered...a free humanities program!

To clarify the purpose of my letter:
I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. With the loss of these contracts many of the centers will disappear or at least not be available year around for the public.
Where will the next generation of designers and artists going to find community venues for their creative spirits? Will elite art schools or commercial galleries be the only recourse for budding and emerging artists? In either case that just will NOT happen for obvious financial reasons.
Being a Community College teacher I know first hand the results of a society that no longer values expressive outlets in high school programs. Will we once again turn our young artists away from a educational resource and push them towards finding their "canvases" on public streets?
I personally have been involved with the Social and Public Art Resource Center and the Eagle Rock Center for the Arts and have seen and experienced the value of a COMMUNITY-BASED organization that successfully continues to serve its community by providing a user-friendly place for creative events.
I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am against the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in best interest of the community members and the City of Los Angeles.

I understand the difficulty it must be to deal with the city's financial hardships, the harsh decisions that must be made, and the people that you are voted in to serve. Believe me, I understand...

I have been a community activist in higher education and the arts for over 5+years in Los Angeles. Throughout my years of service (pro-bono) I have worked with nonprofits in all areas of this beautiful city. My skills are in restructuring administrations and community outreach. Currently, I am assisting the Los Angeles Theatre Academy in launching their programs as one of the newest non profits, we rely heavily on collaborations with the nonprofits to offer our programs to the community. In addition, I'm also assisting the Mexican Cultural Institute of Los Angeles, this project in particular has been a unique experience. For the last 6 months, I have been assisting them with all areas of nonprofit management and I work very closely with El Pueblo Historical Momunment Management to achieve this. These are just two examples of good nonprofits that serve the community members and I am proud to say that all of my work is pro-bono. I do this from the passion of my heart to help.

In terms of dollars, the City of Los Angeles gets more for their dollars in relation to the retail square footage that many of these organizations occupy. Specifically in El Pueblo, the Mexican Cultural Institute has produced over 20+ events and still counting for Angelenos that work directly to promote the city locally and internationally. All of this is documented and we can provide it if you wish. For example, this Saturday alone, we have an art exhibit by Juan Solis (artist/muralist) and also I'm organizing the National Train Day Braceros Breakfast with Amtrak at the gallery which all of you are invited if you wish to join us. I am moving El Pueblo...I am working on making it self sufficient and diverse. I represent the Mexican Cultural Insitutue which promotes Mexican Culture, but I also represent the Los Angeles Theatre Academy that represents ALL CULTURES. In 2011 we plan to produce our Summer Festival at Olvera which includes a Chinese, Jewish, African, Native American, and Spain Legend, produced by professionals and actors are all students from different LAUSD schools that we serve pro bono. Your actions can eliminate these plans, so imagine, how many other plans from other organizations will your actions eliminate. I would like to sit down and show you how we can make this work with ALL nonprofits and also how we can work towards self sustainability at El Pueblo and other areas.

I am aware there are abuses by some nonprofits, I know of some from my past work, but you should consider a committee that can oversee these leases to make sure that all nonprofits are abiding by the rules of the leases and if not then they should be dealt with one by one, but not all. For the faults of some that do not follow the rules, the rest should not be punishe by the same hand.

Call me if you wish to see all of our ideas and how I am and plan to continue working with corporations, nonprofits and community members to achieve the goals that I have in place for the nonprofits that I am assisting.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

It has come to my attention that a proposal by the City of Los Angeles City Administrator Officer's office would eliminate the $1.00 per-year leases for 116 nonprofit organizations (approximately 16 arts organizations) working in the interest of the public. No economic analysis was conducted on the long term costs of this short-term fix and no non-profits were consulted on its impact.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge the LA City Council to have a full hearing in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging to discuss the ramifications of removing the nonprofit lease subsidy program, and the hearing should include the economic impact, human and community impact, this policy will have on the lives of Angelenos.

Thank you.

As a long time community leader I have personally witnessed the effects the current budget shortfalls has had on our community. I hear constant complaints from my community members about the lack of police and the lack of activities for our teens. The Arts programs through outthe city seem to be the last respite of hope for many of these kids. By passing this proposal you undermine all of the work and effort that many artists and craftsman have devoted to our communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I discovered Beyond Baroque way back in 98 or so, as a tourist with my boyfriend, and instantly fell in love. We were strolling around and exploring and came across the curious structure, which drew us in. Now I live here and I continue to visit the unique and amazing Beyond Baroque. It is places like this that make the heart of Venice and enrich our communities.

SPARC, Beyond Baroque, these are cultural landmarks for any true Angelino artist or writer. We have to think of what makes the value of a city. It is not just its commercial value but its cultural value. People need and want to enjoy life and be offered quality and uniqueness, not just marketable goods and corporate avenues.

Certainly, there is a financial cost to maintaining such cultural havens. Perhaps there are ways to increase their monetary profitability -an adjacent cafe, publicity in tourist offices, publicity in high school and colleges, class tours to increase curiosity, etc.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Eliminating the $1.00 lease would be extremely short-sighted. It will neither help, nor solve the budget problems. And I actually believe it will end up doing damage to the city of LA. The Odyssey Theatre is a valuable asset. Please save it.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Honorable Members of the Council:

As President of Southern California Dulcimer Heritage, a 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to the study and proliferation of hammered and fretted dulcimers and related instruments, I respectfully and urgently ask you to consider preserving your current agreement with such organizations, particularly the California Traditional Music Society for the use of its facility in Encino.

The California Traditional Music Society provides unique programming for Los Angeles, and the entire metropolitan area. The diversity of its offerings, the dedication of its staff, and its importance to our children and the quality of life in our community are vital. For many years, the Society has offered a Festival known throughout the West as one of the finest and best attended of its kind, drawing artists and attendees from across the country.

At a time when our schools are faced with draconian cuts in arts programming, nonprofits like CTMS are an oasis for young people to develop the discipline, attention, listening, and social skills necessary to succeed in school, and in life. For adults, the Society offers relief from the economic and political stresses we now face, which lead some individuals to make bad choices for themselves and for the rest of us. As a Board Certified Music Therapist, I see the effects of elimination of these programs in my clinical work, and they are not pretty.

The California Traditional Music society suffered the loss of its Festival venue several years ago, and the financial impact was wrenching. The loss of the use of its facility would create even more damage to an organization which gives back to the community far more than it ever receives.

Please preserve your support of this excellent organization. The investment will be returned in ways that no other source can match.

Respectfully,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

To Whom It May Concern:

As a graduate of UCLA, class of 1998, my education was one of the most rewarding experiences, not because of the institution I went to, but because of non profit community spaces like the Social and Public Art Resource Center.

Though I learned academic skills at UCLA, my real education happened at SPARC. With the skills I have learned there, I have been able to implement community based programing, organize communities in Orange County.

For the last ten years, I have taken my students to visit SPARC so they can be inspired to be civic leaders, artist and educators. It is truly a gem for the City of Los Angeles, and one of a kind in the world.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I strongly OPPOSE the CAO's desire to eliminate the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Because a detailed economic analysis has not been done, nor an opportunity for this to be reviewed for all Arts, Parks, Health & Aging, I feel that the true effect of this measure - which is intended as a way of supposedly saving money - would in fact wind up being a great LOSS to the City of LA..

Most of the organizations effected provide a great service to our city by offering education and enlightened entertainment that simply would not be available if the true least costs were imposed on these organizations. Furthermore these buildings, which are well cared for by the work of the organizations inhabiting them, would quickly return to states of disrepair and become the eyesore most were before being rejuvenated by these organizations.

The cutting of funds without truly understanding the long term effect of this decision will not solve the City of LA budget shortfalls. In the long term, the cessation of these nonprofit organizations will eliminate the many benefits they provide including the reduction of urban blight, employing of thousands of Angelenos and the supporting of tourism - LA's largest industry.

Personally for me, I have in the past been involved with the theatre community, particularly, the Odyssey Theatre - and credit it with providing a time of great creative growth and an exposure to other cultures & walks of life. Experiences that I put to use everyday as a citizen living downtown and as an Electrical Engineer working throughout this city.

PLEASE give this proposal your immediate attention in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. Again, the proposed short term savings to the city is not in any way equal to the significant future loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

LA's diversity and expansive creative culture are what make it a great place to live - let's not ruin that!

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I want to add a personal note that our lives in Los Angeles will be devastated by this action. While this action will not render us homeless, our souls will have no safe haven to seek. We will not go hungry, but we will starve. We will not be sick, but our hearts will have nowhere to sing.

This measure thrreatens the livelihood of the Odyssey Theatre in addition to many other theatres and arts organizations, which would be a tragic consequence of such an ill-thought out move. The Odyssey proveds some of the best theatrical productions in southern California and it would leave a tremendous void in my life and in the lives of so many individuals. As you know, such theatres subsist on a very tight budget and they need to benefit from a lease arrangement such as that being threatened.

Please rethink your plans to implement this action and allow us to continue to attend one of the best live theatres in the country.
thank you.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

It is counter-productive to increase the difficulties on arts organizations which are already struggling and which usually get the short end of the stick. We should instead be following the lead of many European countries and Canada by increasing government support for the arts.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Please go through the process of an economic analysis and allow the communities more of an opportunity to save some of these organizations from being lost completely if this occurs!. Los Angeles is such an expensive place to live and work....and without the support of the city to continue these affordable leases...so much good and creativity and vitality will be lost.

Everybody knows LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, but the nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of people, bring communities together, and support tourism.

I grew up in Santa Monica and Venice and still have a strong connection with the art and music community there. Prices were just too high for me to ever own a home as a single parent with three kids. You should at least consider phasing something in...or do a sliding scale...or give the opportunity to develop a structure for fundraising or donations...because so much will be lost if this really comes to fruition.

Thanks for your time.

The proposed actions would be tantamount to cultural suicide. Would France or England sell of their museums and theaters to save a few bucks? It's time for us to grow up and accept the importance of government support for the arts, even the modest level of support we presently have. To lower the support so drastically as is currently on the table could capsize our cultural institutions.

I see so many unoccupied buildings. I think this si due to the economy and rent control laws. Don't add to this problem by forcing non-profit oganizations out of buildings that most likely won't be rented by anyone else.

As a working actress in film & voice & theatre I have often worked at The Odyssey Theatre which has a wonderful following from people all over LA. It is very well respected & often talked about by industry professionals in the same breath as The Mark Taper Forum or The Geffen Theatres. If this theatre is not protected right now I fear it will be gone by the end of the year & would be a great loss to the citizens of Los Angeles. This is where actors have the privilege of honing their craft in order to be able to give what they give to the movies, TV & the world of voice & where audiences of all ages leave feeling fulfilled, challenged & part of an essential community - something not always easy to find in this vast city.
I hope you can help. Thank-You so much.

Dear Los Angeles City Council,

Please do not eliminate the $1 lease program for nonprofit organizations in the City of Los Angeles.

These are dark times economically, and in such times it is all the more important for Los Angeles to work hard towards keeping in place its lively arts scene, which includes small theaters.

I regularly watch shows at small theaters such as the Odyssey Theater. Small theaters are a large part of what makes Los Angeles an artistically vibrant city, and a wonderful city to live in. Small theaters, including the Odyssey Theater, would be hurt disastrously by the proposed change.

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter.

Sincerely,

Susanne Lohmann

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. The Odyssey Theater cannot survive without this lease agreement. It is a valuable asset to the LA community providing jobs (however small) for people in the arts.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I have subscribed to the Oddysey Theatre Ensemble since early 70's. They have consistently produced high quality plays, always struggling financially. I believe it is one of the most important cultural organizations of the city. Please don't cause its demise.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Haven't the Arts suffered enough?? I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. Empty buildings breed crime and these buildings will stand empty and bring in NO revenue for the city. At least near the Odyssey there are parking companies making money and coins put in the meters and local eateries being visited after the shows.

I, personally, have been attending the Odyssey Theater Ensemble at various locations since my arrival in Los Angeles in 1976. I cannot count how many outstanding and reasonable priced events I and my family have attended at their shows. As a city, as a society, even in troubled times, this is NOT where we should be looking to squezze out a few extra bucks!

Additionally, I have seen no indication that the City has any substitute tenants for the buildings in question.

This action will have minimum impact on the City's fiscal predicament. Rather, it would go a long way to turn Los Angeles towards cultural and moral bankruptcy.

I urge you to carefully consider this action and the full ramification it may have on the lives of the residents of Los Angels.

While I live in Northern California, I visit Los Angeles 6-8 times per year, largely to patronize these arts organizations. Although the City has budget problems, the Odyssey Theatre is a gem that should not be subjected to onerous rent which would occur if the lease program is eliminated. It could mean the demise of an important cultural resource.

The City would not gain enough to counter the loss of the benefits provided by the Odyssey and other nonprofit organizations.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

The nonprofit orgs benefit many in the city - at little cost to the city. Therefore, rent for facilities should be very low. As a volunteer for the non-profits, I know they do not have the means to pay much rent; but w/out a facility, cannot provide their widely and greatly appreciated services.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

The small theatres in L.A. are some of this city's great treasures. I am an avid theatre goer, and have attended plays at The Odyssey Theatres for many years. Some of the BEST SHOWS I have seen anywhere (including NYC) have been staged there.
I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

PLEASE, PLEASE don't let anything happen to the Odyssety theatre group; it would be such a loss to the community.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Over the years, I have enjoyed professional performances by the Odessey Theatre and other theatres in Los Angeles. These theatres are barely making it, and significantly raising their rents would in my opinion put them out of business.

Therefore, I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I have been a supporter of many organizations that keep Los Angeles humming. My favorites are those that do outreach to children - We Tell Stories, The Virginia Avenue Project to name just two. It's so important that during these difficult times that we all make sacrifices to keep stories and dreams alive.

Therefore, I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

This is to oppose the elimination of the $1.00 leases for nonprofit organizations in Los Angeles.

I urge that the City Council analyze the impact of this proposal, and have a full and open hearing on this issue. I strongly suspect that the city will not benefit from this proposal, and the harm from the loss of these wonderful organizations will be immense.

This is truly a case of "penny-wise, pound-foolish." Please do not take what seems the easy way out - you will gain nothing, and lose much.

What we will lose in the arts, which is, after all, what Los Angeles has stood for since the beginning of the last century, not to mention jobs and tourism, is not worth the proposed action.

Please think again, and shelve this foolish proposal - permanently.

Sincerely,

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Our family would be deeply saddened if the Odyssey Theatre were to close it's doors. We have been attending plays there for close to 20 years, and consider it "our local theater". Our dear friend Laurie O'Brien has graced the stage there as one of the Odyssey's stellar performers, and over the course of the years we have been thrilled to get to see her there. We have had the great pleasure to have been introduced to many other great actors, authors and directors, and have looked forward to each of the Odyssey's upcoming events. The thought of it not being there is devastating to us, as all of us are involved in or passionate about the performing arts.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. We are confident that you will give this careful thought.

Sincerely
Leslie Martinez

The Odyssey Theater on Sepulveda Avenue presents an amazing range of first-rate drama and significantly enhances the quality of life on the west side. It probably could not survive if charged rent for the property.

It is unlikely that the transformed warehouse used by Odyssey would bring in any income to the city, and a derelict building is only an eyesore.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

My husband and I are subscribers to the Odyssey and Pacific Resident Theaters. Both of these theaters present high quality plays with professional actors, but on a very limited budget. These theaters provide work and experience for young and not so young actors and add income to the entire community. Cutting their $1.00 lease program makes no economic or civic sense. Therefore, I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of this program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

As a student I was given invaluable opportunities to intern at a number of these organizations. The impact those experiences had on me shaped my career. As a former intern and employee of several nonprofits, I can tell you that this would have immediate effects on the communities of Los Angeles and future generations of professionals and artists. The culture of LA, sustained in large part by the organizations that would be affected by this policy, is what keeps me from moving away entirely. Please, thoroughly evaluate the implications of this decision in a concrete way. The losses would be tremendous.

It would be a tragic thing if this old line theatre would have to close its doors. We and our friends have been going there to see first rate productions for the last 20 years. If the Odyssey were to close we would all be one step closer to becoming a cultural wasteland. Dear Councilman Garcetti:

The Oddessey Theater on Sepulveda alerted everyone to the current issue, that its lease might be lost, which would make it financial un-viable, and so I am writing on their behalf as an audience member and member of the public.

Like many lower-profile arts organizations, the Oddessey provides a special kind of community, performing classic works with a personal touch, as for example using African-American actors in leads, instead of traditional casting, and including local people who might otherwise not have an opportunity. The ticket prices have always been reasonable which is one reason I have been able to be a supporter, whereas the high-profile downtown theatres are simply too expensive for regular people.

Finally, having been in their building, which is a rather ramshackle warehouse in a marginal commercial district, I am not sure that the city would reap much benefit from bringing in full-paying tenants as the "market rate" at this time is probably going to be disappointing. More study should be done to determine the costs and benefits of losing this cultural institution.

My personal interest is in the Odyssey Theatre Ensemble. I was still married when I started attending the Odyssey plays so I know it was before 1983! I have had a subscription there for over 25 years and have seen some amazing plays (and a few dogs). Both kinds are memorable. Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Among the many diverse groups - those who create and support the arts - will go elsewhere, resulting in a loss of support already diluted by current conditions. You will rob Los Angeles of it's cultural backbone - most of whom are already donating their time and money to keep the arts alive.

Should this eventually happen - sooner than one can expect - Los Angeles' cultural profile will wither and die.

No REAL cosmopolitan city is without its arts. Even impoverished Berlin ALWAYS supports it arts institutions. I have been going to the Odyssey Theater for 40 years enjoying good theater and novel productions. I have taken out of town friends there and have always been appreciative of their low costs which enable more than the moneyed to enjoy drama. To do away with this kind of institution is another nail in the coffin of Los Angeles, already suffering an accelerated demise.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. I understand that 16 organizations that would be affected by this are arts organizations. This will devastate the cultural life of our city and do the city no financial good because most of the buildings being considered for this are substandard and unrentable. One of these organizations is The Odyssey Theatre, one of our most prized small theatres here in L.A.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing this letter as a concerned Angelino who does not see the very fabric of our city, its culture, eroded in order to fight the deficit. A city without Arts & culture to express its spirit is a husk of function, with no window into the lives that build it. I oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review. Let the public examine and debate the non-financial costs we would incur if our non-profits were crippled with huge leases.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. Most importantly, nonprofits are dedicated to those essentially human pursuits that can turn a prosperous city into a great city - a world class city

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am a long-time Los Angeles resident who takes pride in the vitality of the arts scene in L.A. I significant component of that vitality comes from the arts estaqblishments that are made possible by the city's subsidy in the form of nominal rents for property. I am disheartened to learn of the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I strongly oppose this proposed action and request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.
To force organizations such as The Odyssey Theater to vacate its location and stop functioning would simply leave the city with an empty building on its hands, put a number of employees out of work, and deprive a loyal public of that important exemplar of the arts.
To raise a little money in the short run by eliminating these quiet subsidies is false economy of the worst sort.
Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

It would be a disaster if the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles were to be eliminated.
I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

It is vital that you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am a contributer to the Odyssey Theatre and a frequent attendee at the superb and culturally significant performances there. Loss of the City of Los Angeles support of the Odyssey Theatre would force the closure of the Odyssey and create a cultural vacuum in Los Angeles. It would be a personal loss to me and to members of my family and friends who enjoy live theatre. Los Angeles has become a city of culture; don't let this status be lost by short-sighted policies that will have a long-term negative impact on the value of living in Los Angeles.

I'm a long-term patron of the Odyssey Theatre in West Los Angeles. Some of the most innovative and tasteful performances I've seen have come from this wonderful organization. The theater has also graciously provided its stage to younger artists including students of the LA City College, etc. This theater provides an important opportunity for community members with lower income levels to be a part of cultural Los Angeles with their "pay what you can" performances and student/senior discounts. Please do not let this wonderful oasis of excellent theater in West Los Angeles disappear!

I understand the hard decisions that are facing the City Council members. I urge you to keep the present program running allowing non profits to a $1.00 per year lease. The City currently realizes economic benefits from non profits thru movie film location shooting, payroll/jobs, and tourism.

Thank you for listening.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Councilperson,

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations, such as the excellent Odyssee Theatre Company, working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review. Rather than being a quick fix, this proposal will likely cause immeasurable harm to the morale of the communities which would be affected thereby.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry. I do not even want to think about the negative, harmful effect the elimination of this program will undoubtably have on the community, just in terms of the elimination of opportunities for positive, creative expression which so many of Los Angeles' underprivileged citizens desperately need.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

As a long time admirer or the Odyssey who has been attending its productions since it was located by Bundy and Santa Monica, I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. The performances I've been privileged to attend at the Odyssey have been among the best I've seen anywhere, at a price that was affordable. The Odyssey and theaters like it are a tremendous asset to the city, offering exposure to talent and creativity of a quality that might well not otherwise be available. I remember seeing the best Hamlet there I've ever seen in my life.

It's essential that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Please keep vibrant theaters such as the Odyssey alive. We need them.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I have been asked to send a form letter opposing this proposal, but I prefer to make my own points. This proposal will obviously have a negative affect on the availability of the arts to LA residents. It is the arts that speak to our humanity and keep us emotionally centered. Effectively eliminating the programs targeted here will cause an enormous cultural loss to the city for, I suspect, very little financial gain. Please consider this issue carefully.

Theaters like the Odyssey increase respect for L.A.'s arts community by putting on quality, thought-provoking theater. It would be not just an economic but a cultural loss if these theaters were to close.

My husband and I are always proud to take visitors around LA. Whenever we have family or friends visiting, we take them to as many museums and galleries, live theaters, and concerts as we can. It is the abundance of such cultural offerings (along with the parks and beaches) that makes LA a world class city. Having grown up here, I remember when the offerings were much slimmer -- I hate to think we could slip back into provincialism again -- or into a state where admission prices go so high that people of average income can no longer benefit from the riches around them.

It's all very fine to have high-priced opera among the chandeliers and staircases of the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion. But the miracle is that we also have top quality free Shakespeare (I'm particularly thinking of the Independent Shakespeare Co., which I'm a huge fan of, among others) and free summer concerts all over the city, and so on. As well as affordably priced but extraordinarily ambitious work from companies like the Odyssey Theatre Ensemble... And I also think about the children's art classes I used to take at the Municipal Art Gallery (Barnsdall Park): I cannot convey how short-sighted it would be and how bad for the future of LA if these kind of opportunities ceased to exist.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Please do not eliminate the $!.00 per year lease program for the Arts. My particular interest is the Odyssey Theater on Sepulveda which my family has enjoyed for many many years.

What is our society turning into where we can't even have these small cultural pleasures? If my tax money is funding them then this is where I want my money to go.

Why don't you buy some bikes for some of your municipal limo users? I bet you could find a lot of money if the Mayor and his pals biked or at least drove themselves to work.

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I would like to personalize this letter to state that I drive from Orange County to Downtown LA for the arts and the culture. I do not enjoy the traffic and the costly parking, but gladly make the drive for the museums, concerts, and theaters. Please keep the arts alive in the city, it's already been taken from the schools.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am deeply saddened to hear of the possible elimination of the $1.00 lease program for non-profit organizations in L.A. City. What a terrible loss it would be to our city, which is a major culture center in our country! At a time when so many have lost so much, to lose the source of support, intellectual stimulation, beauty and meaning seems to make no sense.

I urge you to consider carefully the costs and benefits of eliminating this program.
Is the proposed savings equal to the potential loss of services, loss of humanity which Los Angeles stands for, to say nothing of loss in revenue as a cultural center attracting tourism, L.A.'s largest industry?

Please re-consider and do not be penny-wise and pound foolish! What may be torn asunder will not be so easy to re-construct or replace.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I've attended shows at the Odyssey theater my entire life. I've seen some of the best theater available anywhere, more personal and touching and fulfilling than what you get in sixty-dollar seats at the Mark Taper Forum or any other big-name theaters.

Small theaters make artistic exploration possible. They're the reason skilled actors flock to LA, the reason they stay. If we take away LA's theater tradition, what the hell do we have left?

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Los Angeles City Council:

For many years, I have had the pleasure of attending performances at the Odyssey Theatre, all of which have been extraordinary, along with attending functions at other nonprofit organizations throughout the City of Los Angeles. By eliminating these affordable, nonprofit organizations, it will severely impact art organizations, eliminate jobs (which we do not need in Los Angeles) and increase urban blight, etc.

I am, therefore, writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. The organizations that would be affected contribute immense value to the quality of life in our city and are making beautiful, energetic use of buildings which the city originally made available to them because these properties were NOT potential profit-generators. They are STILL not potential profit generators, but by taking them out of the reach of the Odyssey Theatre and other outstanding arts and social programs, the council would in a moment destroy so many sources of hope, inspiration and joy that have served Angelenos well for decades. The result would be of little or no benefit to the city's financial position, as commercial use of these properties is for the most part currently impossible or very unattractive; the current economic climate does not include private investors who are clamoring for the opportunity to purchase or lease properties into which they would immediately have to sink hiundreds of thousands of dollars.

We have already lost (albeit hopefully temporarily) Pasadena Playhouse. And now, should this proposal go through another theatrical icon, The Odyssey, would be in danger as well as numerous other small venues. Please do not let this happen. Theaters such as The Odyssey are essential venues for quality live stage productions at seat prices far below those offered by commercial establishments with sometimes lesser artistic ambition.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I'm a nationally known writer and speaker on the arts (www.arlenegoldbard.com) who often cites SPARC as an exemplar of the public interest in culture. Part of the reason SPARC has been able to do such powerful work for individuals and communities is the modest public support channeled its way through this program.

In this way, the city contributes to the cultural well-being of the entire community at little public cost and with large public benefit. Eliminating the subsidy would create a negative response across the U.S., and be seen as an attack on a well-respected and effective community arts program. I know I speak for many national observers when I urge you not to make this mistake.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

In a City whose contribution to the world is classified as Entertainment, let us not lose sight of where all Entertainment comes from: THE ARTS!!
I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. This is a small government contribution to the much greater financial gain that these theaters incubate in terms of writers, directors, set designers, wardrobe people, lighting, makeup, producers and the least of which is certainly not actors. These grass roots are the basis of our tourist trade, even our amusement parks have theatrical roots.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear City Council Members,

I am a supporter of the Odyssey theater and attend many other small theaters in LA. I know from my own experience that the amount of money I spent on meals, parking, and other tax generating services while attending performances should outweigh the amount of income gained from leases on these properties, particularly if raising the lease payments forces them to close or relocate outside of the city.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles. Frankly, I wasn't aware of this kind of generousity being extended to non-profits "in the interests of the public." The Odyssey Theatre Ensemble is one example of the institutions that would be lost, if the $1.00 lease program for nonprofits is eliminated. This theatre--actually, three theatres under one roof--has informed, entertained, and illuminated the lives of thousands and thousands of residents and out-of-town visitors for decades. It is only able to exist, because of the dedication and focus of its managers, particularly Ron Sossi, and because of the generosity of the community's support. Live theatre is an art form that is unique to every community, and yet it rarely lives without civic support in the form of tax relief and/or government grants. Many, many, many plays have been given their first breath of life in the smaller theatres, where experimentation and real creativity are expected--but where box office cannot compete with movies, pop music concerts, and other heavily invested, heavily advertised media. These theatres and other art and social service venues will die without this important relief. The occupants of those spaces--minus the current program--would most likely have to vacate; a great many of the spaces would then stand empty, since the current downturn does not seem likely to send a flood of able-to-pay lessees. The economic pendulum will swing back to the positive; please do not take away the $ 1.00 per year lease program. I fear that the loss of all those non-profit services would yield a city that would be bankrupt creatively and socially.

Thank you very much for your attention and hoped-for support.

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Los Angeles has been and is a place sorely in need of cultural identity. Spread out and seemingly devoid of unified purpose ,this vast city is kept together by a series of local artistic venues and theatres, including my favorite: The Odyssey. If you close down the Odyssey theatre and replace it with an empty void, you will be doing a vast disservise to the entire Los Angeles community.

We urge you to get squeeze some money from the oil polluters rather than the spiritual enlighteners.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

In particular, the Odyssey Theatre has a 40 year history of producing award winning, world class theater on a very modest budget.

The Odyssey subscriber base includes a high percentage of senior citizens. The closing of the theater would be a great loss to all, but in particular to the many supporters who have been attending this theater for decades.

Furthermore, the building housing the Odyssey is unfit to rent out.... at market rate... to business or as office space, without millions in renovations, or more likely, a complete teardown and rebuild. This is not an action that will help shore up the empty coffers of the city....it will only cost the city money!

If the $1 lease program is eliminated, the Odyssey will be forced to close its doors within a matter of months.

This proposed action will not serve the city's bottom line, the people, or the profile of the politicians. It serves no one.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

I am writing to oppose the CAO's recommended elimination of the $1.00 lease program for nonprofit organizations working in the interest of the public within the City of Los Angeles.

I further request that this proposal receive a full economic analysis and have the opportunity to be heard in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging for a complete review.

While I understand the City of LA faces unprecedented budget shortfalls, nonprofit organizations operating in Los Angeles reduce urban blight, employ thousands of Angelenos and support tourism, LA's largest industry.

I urge you to give this proposal careful consideration in Arts, Parks, Health & Aging. The proposed savings to the city is not equal to the potential loss of services currently provided by these organizations within their local communities.

My particular concern is the Odyssey Theater, a local venue that I have belonged to for years. It offers residents theater at an affordable level and has exposed many young and old to quality performances. It gives actors a chance to perform. What a loss to our community if this passes.

Sincerely, Mary Shapiro

Dear Councilman Garcetti:

Dear Sirs,
I have been advised that the LA City Council intend to abolish the $1 annual lease subsidy for a large number of registered non-profit organisations. I am a British PhD student funded by the British Arts & Humanities Research Council at the University of East London (UK) researching Los Angeles mural art 1900-1950. I would like to add my voice in support of the Social and Public Art Resource Center (SPARC) located in Venice, one of the non-profit organisations that may be closed down under your costs reduction agenda.

SPARC is a worthwhile and valuable resource that benefits not only the Los Angeles community but also researchers such as myself and probably many other mural aficionados' worldwide with an interest in public art. Los Angeles is widely known for it's public art and it is what first attracted me to the city, and I am now a regular visitor annually. Please, please, do your best to help retain this very unique and invaluable organisation.
Sincerely,
John Collings,
London, UK.

Oh My God. What a foolish short sighted proposal! I can't believe this is even being considered. The non-profits and the ARTS are what makes a city human and liveable. Los Angeles has thousands of working artists who pay taxes and indirectly pay the wages of this City Council. These people are the life blood of this community.

Personally, I have been lucky enough to see performances at the Odyssey for many more years than I can remember (30+) and would be sad to see small theater suffer from inability to maintain theater space that they have been fortunate enough to receive from the city. Some of the best work I have seen has been from the Odyssey. I regularly check for plays at this particular theater.

Sincerely,
