Comments for Public Posting: Support this ordinance. There is no prohibition to living in vehicles right now, which is utter insanity. Individuals should not be sleeping in cars in residential areas. No other local city permits this situation, which has resulted in an explosion of vehicle dwellers in Los Angeles. A free permitting system that would allow dwelling in designated non-residential areas is a better and safer plan. It would also incentivize those living in their cars to avail themselves of programs and services that would improve their lives.
