Comments for Public Posting: Currently, In Sunland, there is a property at 8362 Apperson Street, that was recently sold/bought. This property was built in 1926 and at one point was an original Fire House. The property was in pristine condition. The interior updated, yet still retained many of its historical features and charm. This new owner applied for a demolition permit and was denied. Since that time, they have gutted the interior, changed out some of the windows and have built a cinderblock wall that extends ONTO the sidewalk. It is my understanding that this owner has been sent a cease and desist, that has been ignored because NO ONE has up to this point held them accountable for their destruction. They are also attempting to change what street the front door is on in order to change its address and any history the property had at its original site will be lost. So many of us have turned in this owner and NOTHING has happened. You have been talking an idea to death while many historic homes are being destroyed. Do something.
