Dear Adam,

I am writing today in hopes that you will consider measures that ban the sale of fur in Los Angeles. In our modern era, particularly in our warm Mediterranean climate, there is no reason to adversely torture and kill animals in the name of making fur jackets and hats. I understand there may be economic issues related to this ban, but I hope that in time, the economy and those affected will find other areas of profit and employment that are more humane.

Sincerely,

Miranda Richards
