Summary: The Los Feliz Neighborhood Council, representing over 44,000 stakeholders, believes that public land should be used for the benefit of the public. In the midst of an affordable housing crisis, the city must do everything in its power to encourage the development of affordable housing. There is no better place to start than with housing built on city-owned land. The LFNC supports this motion and encourages the City Council to go further to develop bold, innovative, and robust plans to encourage and incentivize the building of affordable housing on land owned by the people of the City of Los Angeles.
