Comments for Public Posting: To: Councilmember Mark Ridley-Thomas Subject: Right to Housing in the City of Los Angeles We would like to thank you and the team supporters for creating the framework for a “Right to Housing in the City of Los Angeles. The serious plight surrounding homelessness is something that the public, individuals, policy makers, and survivors have been affected with for many countless years. Unfortunately, it has gotten out of hand and many people are suffering throughout the city, as well as in other parts of the world. It has traumatized folks, shocked locals, and put a tremendous burden of both housed and unhoused citizens. As you had profoundly stated, the United States Constitution has patriotically engraved a set pattern of what rights American citizens are inherently due. The conditions of housing versus homelessness are in an overwhelming severely, relentless state of affairs. Your efforts, with the assistance of supportive members, are truly saluted for the ongoing progression methods, that have taken place throughout the years. The push for researchers to follow through with independent and accurate data, is something that should not be taken lightly, we hope. Therefore, the public with much warrant anticipation, will receive the facts, relative to the abundance of resources that someone, perhaps certain parties may be holding the funds as captives? We want to continue as a people, to address both the quandary and the solutions of the various challenges, whereby homelessness has affected a city, a nation, and its people. We strive for the prize to maintain a humanistic and well-balanced overview of what is possible for the citizens of the City of Los Angeles. Surely, it does take a village and then some, to unite each fellow member of society, by equally distributing the many resources to all. Someone had said, “We brought nothing into this world, and it is certain that we will not take anything out.” Spreading the wealth is almost a given, when certain societal rules are considered, and human dignity is at the forefront of how reality will manifest itself. Perhaps the world will change for the better, as we move forward on the journey of fulfilling what the meaning of brotherly kindness represents. We thank you and your team, once again. Respectfully, Gwendolyn Dixon
