Comments for Public Posting: Extending the moratorium is outrageous. What about the landlords? I own one rental home and the rent is all income that I currently have. You all have given the tenants sufficient time to milk the situation and milk in it they are. A lot of them haven't even applied for help with payments since they know they can't be evicted anyway. The landlords are hurting! Are y'all thinking that landlords have multiple homes and apartment complexes? A lot of us only have one apartment or one house that we're renting and the rent is part or all of our income. Tenants everywhere are taking advantage of the situation and even trashing our homes! Or in a lot of cases leaving with appliances. This has got to end.
