Comments for Public Posting: The last thing our public shared spaces in the City of Los Angeles need is guns. Park Rangers should stick to protecting the environment and teaching people about nature and fire safety. NO guns for Rangers. Also, what happened to Hugo and Eunisses' motion to get guns out of the Council Chambers during City Council meetings? In Ancient Rome, it was considered sacrilege to allow any soldiers, armed guards (legionnaires) or weapons into the center of the City, especially when the Senate was meeting. The reason was to be able to deliberate without intimidation or fear.
