Comments for Public Posting: Because NOTHING says "equitable" like making decisions based on anything other than appropriate qualifications. Let me know when you pick your personal doctor to perform intricate surgery based on their "equitable" background, and not the experience and educations. Be sure to allow the underqualified fire personnel to be the one to get your 200lb dead weight body out of your home from the second floor while a fire is raging. Lowering the bar is an insult to every single POC who has achieved success through hard work, education and experience.
