Comments for Public Posting: Homeless people need care and attention, not to be hidden away from the eyes of the public. Spending more money on police instead of affordable/ public housing, mental health and other way of helping these members of our community is further proof that City Hall's duty is to the wealthy. Crime rates have steadily decreased in America and yet the housing crisis has yet to subside. It is time to put aside these vanity projects and actually care for the unhoused community.
