Comments for Public Posting: So, do you people have any clue how you will implement all this fancy legislation? Does it matter? Do you just pass laws without a clue of how ships will be "zero emissions" in less than 10 years when the technology doesn't exist now? I suppose you don't care that the US, thanks to corrupt politicians and Big Corporations, has become dependent on foreign nations for many materials and products - That's okay, under the current regime, people need to start getting used to shortages- More Left wing lunacy- not one ounce of common sense in the entire Los Angeles government- but plenty of back room deals no doubt-
