Comments for Public Posting: Can we stop calling the working class low income? The city wouldn't move without the working class. Rent was never supposed to get as high as it has. In the "Golden era" of Hollywood a person could get a 3 bedroom for $900, that same 3 bedroom in some areas of LA is now $3,000-$4000 which is crazy! Again, the working class needs access to both affordable rentals & ownership options, the council could host fundraisers with orgs like LA Lakers, Clippers ETC that would raise money for the fund but also residents who are able could invest themselves in the fund by paying a small fee. Non-profits shouldn't own all the housing, some of it should be returned to residents. If more working class residents owned housing we wouldn't be in the current crisis with housing that we are in.
