Comments for Public Posting: I am in support of 25,000 units by 2025! California and especially Los Angeles are facing a severe affordable housing crisis and a crisis of homelessness. The most long lasting and impactful solution is to provide housing for unhoused individuals. It is cost effective and humane. It is important that the city considers affordable construction costs so that 25,000 units by 2025 is an achievable goal.
