Comments for Public Posting: Hello there, I'm writing in today to share my support and urge you to vote yes on 3 ordinances- the expanded polystyrene ban, bag ban expansion, and the zero waste at City facilities and events requirements. These policies are very important to me and many Angelenos who want to protect the environment and promote a transition to reusables instead of single-use. Thank you very much.

Comments for Public Posting: Dear Councilmembers, Los Angeles - both as a City and a County, the other cities in L.A. County and the state of California need should be the leading voices united in best practices for our environment. You have three important proposed policies before you on Tuesday, December 6, 2022 which I implore you to vote in favor of: 1) A Ban on polystyrene (styrofoam) 2) Expansion on the current plastic bag ban 3) Requiring Zero Waste practices at ALL City facilities and events from City Hall to the L.A. Zoo. Please think about how we really should be instilling Los Angeles residents, business, visitors and people who live and work in L.A. on the thoughtful Seventh Generation principles where we consider our actions and how they affect the seven generations to come after us. Without stewardship for our home planet and its environment we won't survive. Thank you for your votes of support on these three measures and thank you for looking for ways to continue to expand this great City's impact on the environment in the immediate, near and more distant future.

Comments for Public Posting: I strongly support the passage of the following ordinances: 1) a ban on the distribution and sale of expanded polystyrene products, 2) an expansion of the single-use bag ban, and 3) zero waste city facility and event requirements. This should be considered as the first step towards developing more sustainable solutions. I strongly support the city of Los Angeles implementing stricter requirements on restaurant take-out containers. As we are adopting more and more of a take-out life-style, the amount of single-use plastic waste generated is unacceptable and unsustainable. Merely requiring take-out containers to be recyclable is not enough since the vast majority is not recycled. What should be done instead, is developing a standard set of reusable, returnable take-out containers every restaurant in Los Angeles is required to use and accept when customers bring them back for cleaning / processing for reuse. This is the only way to solve the plastic waste crisis in the long term. Thank you for your time and commitment to protecting both public and environmental health.

Comments for Public Posting: Single-use plastics have become a major pollutant in our culture. Only 9% of plastic can be recycled, so the rest ends up in landfills and oceans. Styrofoam is even worse because it cannot be recycled at all and can never break down. Consumers are left with very little choice when purchasing food because most of it is wrapped in plastic or styrofoam. We must do all we can to discourage businesses from packaging their products in plastic and styrofoam if we don't want the planet to be overrun by these pollutants, leaving our children and grandchildren to clean up the mess. It is up to legislators to pass legislation banning plastic and styrofoam because businesses will not stop using them of their own volition.

Comments for Public Posting: I regularly clean up plastics and debris along LA river. One winter morning last year, I was out collecting trash in the river bank when I came across a Canada goose that was caught in some plastic netting and was unable to move. I had to call LA Animal Services so they could free up the poor bird. The good news was that the operation was successful and the goose was saved. The bad news is that my clean-up efforts are almost pointless in the big scheme of things. There are thousands of bits of plastic, most of which are single use items such as Styrofoam cups and shopping bags, floating in the river and out into the ocean every single day. There they pollute waters and injure and kill thousands of marine animals. It's a scourge, an epidemic, a plague. I strongly support the passage of the following ordinances: 1) a ban on the distribution and sale of expanded polystyrene products, 2) an expansion of the single-use bag ban, and 3) zero waste city facility and event requirements. Comments for Public Posting: There is no greater threat to life on earth than the plastics crisis, because it is inextricably tied to the climate crisis. If plastics production were a nation, it would be the fifth largest emitter of greenhouse gases in the world. We need to reduce our use of plastics, especially plastic packaging, and non-recycled plastics like polystyrene and plastic film, meaning plastic bags. I encourage the LA city council to pass these ordinances. Thank You.

Comments for Public Posting: Thanks to recent studies conducted by universities around the world we now know with certainty that Plastic and especially micro-plastics are everywhere unfortunately. In the water, in our blood, lungs, and in the the most remote areas on our planet such as antártica. It's easy to see after it rains go to the beach and you can see the river of trash coming down the LA riverbed. Plastic causes many different types of cancers and other diseases that we are only beginning to understand. Also disrupts our hormone balance. Plastic is not receiving the urgency it requires. We need to ban plastic at the source and replace it with something that is non-toxic because in many occasions it is replaced with something just as toxic if not more for example, a lot of cardboard boxes restaurants use for takeout are coated with a plastic spray that contains phthalates. A plastic ban is needed urgently.

Comments for Public Posting: Every day I walk along the Plata Vista Riparian corridor and every day it is strewn with plastic waste. I strongly support the passage of the following ordinances: 1) a ban on the distribution and sale of expanded polystyrene products, 2) an expansion of the single-use bag ban, and 3) zero waste city facility and event requirements. Thank you for your time and commitment to protecting both public and environmental health.
