Comments for Public Posting: As hotels sit empty, it is UNACCEPTABLE for thousands to be unhoused especially during a global pandemic. The unhoused issue in our city has been inhumanely dealt with for too long, this is a humans right issue. Especially with FEMA giving LA money to use to seize the hotels, there are no more excuses.

Comments for Public Posting: I am a born and raised Los Angeles resident writing to support councilmembers' Bonin and Raman in their motion to seize hotels for the most vulnerable members of our city during what is still a deadly pandemic with multiple highly contagious variants. We must push this motion forward and pass it NOW. LA City Council should be using FREE FEMA MONEY to address the Covid crisis! The federal government is fully funding our city's effort to house the unhoused in hotels. FIVE unhoused people die every day in Los Angeles--the FEMA reimbursement is time limited and we must act now to make use of vacant hotels and motels and save lives of our unhoused neighbors. Congregate shelters are not safe for many people as a result of the pandemic, as there is NO way to implement effective social distancing measures. The solution to this issue is clear. We must flatten the curve and provide safe shelter for unhoused residents.
