Comments for Public Posting: Requiring proof of vaccination to access public resources and private businesses without alternative is tantamount to coercion. Consent under coercion is no kind of consent at all. Bodily autonomy is the final frontier of liberty. If we hand the government the power to mandate medical treatment and make health decisions for individuals, we are ultimately handing them the right to our bodies. This law will also further disenfranchise minorities who have the lowest vaccination rates in the city, leading to (perhaps unintentional) de facto segregation. Oppose this and any future form of vaccine passport, mandate, and/or coercion.
