Comments for Public Posting: The "Master Plan". Not ours. Unless these new cars are powered ala the Flintstones or purely and solely by the sun; then these are NOT environmentally friendly. Have you seen what happens to the environment to source lithium? And where will these batteries (with a replacement cost in the thousands and thousands) go once they are used up? Can they go in the LA City Council's backyards? We have already seen the damage to wildlife from the Wind and Solar set ups. I expect better from what I thought were formally educated representatives. Is it that you don't think your constituents aren't educated and will blindly follow along with your plans? Focus, people, focus.
