Comments for Public Posting: It's about time to revive the dormant sidewalk project. We have no sidewalks in Sun Valley, and the ones that are supposed to be sidewalks, are blocked by tents, junk, RVs, trash, and are in desperate need of repair. One other issue we face in Sun Valley is the fact that every time you request a sidewalk improvement or repair they tell us that "the sidewalks are unimproved areas and are the responsibility of homeowners". What kind of crap is this? Homeowners barely afford maintaining their homes, this is a low income community, how does the city expect homeowners to build their own sidewalk? Where does our tax payer money go? They make this look like building an iron dome or something like that. The city needs sidewalks and it is the city to build, repair, and maintain them, not the homeowner. Period, no matter how the city tries to twist it to pass the ball to low income homeowners. Every time I report an issue, I am told that the homeowner must fix it, the homeowner must repair the pothole, the homeowner must repair the street in front of their house. When does the city come in handy? If the homeowner should do all of these, then the homeowner must be relieved of property tax, period. None of this homeowner crap applies to RVs and tents, does it? Looks like these days RV and tents dwellers enjoy more rights than homeowners who pay property tax for all these improvements. Frustrating and totally unacceptable, to say the least. Sidewalk is a priority. I guess until the next lawsuit, we won't see any improvements in Sun Valley area. On Fair Ave. people walk in the street, endangering themselves and the drivers. See images below, the same on Strathern at Fair & Tujunga. These are just a few.
