Comments for Public Posting: Why is City Council trying to end Project Roomkey? Is it because it was such a resounding success? Obviously not. Almost no one has been permanently housed. You all are just going to get yelled at even more at by your housed constituents about more people on their streets and pass even more 41.18d restrictions instead of doing anything else. Here's an idea - instead of cowering to the hotel lobby so they can make even more money, force them continue Project Roomkey. Or better yet, use eminent domain to claim their rooms to provide badly-needed affordable permanent housing. This council file is a joke.
