Comments for Public Posting: So NOW Paul Koretz is suddenly actually interested in the animals. He wasn't before. He was just interested in the photo ops. Now that he's been caught asleep at the wheel of a mac truck that's crashed directly into the front pages of the LA TIMES.... He's going to raise your taxes and take no accountability. Listen Paulie, we learned from you, there's always money in the banana stand (animal welfare trust fund) or wait did you spend it all on a stupid contract with a company named after a byproduct of murdering horses? Did anyone else notice that Paul called the first public commenter by name? How did he know the name? Public comment was by telephone. Unless he prearranged it. That first public commenter tried to lay this all at the feet of near dear great leader Mayor Garcetti. Did you hear that Eric now even the city council is throwing you under the mac truck. Don't fall for it. Koretz is responsible and he's sinking his campaign faster than a lead balloon.

Comments for Public Posting: This is NOT something the public tax payer should be paying for. How many dogs could be walked with this money? How much proper medical care? Cmon Nury, this is selfish given everything we have going on.
