Comments for Public Posting: As a 40-year resident of the San Fernando Valley, a frequent visitor of the Sepulveda Basin, and President of the San Fernando Valley Audubon Society, I strongly urge you to consider nature-based solutions in the Basin Vision Plan. It is important to all who rely on the Basin for recreation, flood control, and open space, for this motion to advance. Those of us who love the Basin and live nearby, want the Plan to utilize nature-based solutions to provide both safe floodwater control and a park-like atmosphere that can be utilized by all members of the community, a community which is starved for open space, especially parkland. It is notable that the nature-based solutions outlined in the River Project's plan for the Basin provide ample parkland while rebuilding groundwater systems to help deal with drought.
