Comments for Public Posting: I absolutely oppose photo enforcement of any kind and am shocked at the number of locations in the City where this is being implemented. We beat back red light cameras just to have to endure speed cameras as the streets are being canabalized for special interests groups and their "anything but cars" agenda. While I don't care for automated traffic enforcement of any kind, I could tolerate these cameras for school zone enforcement as long as their is proper signage (including amber lights indicating tye system is active) and specific times the system is in use during the school day when children are arriving/ departing school, but general 24/7 anywhere in the city enforcement, no! NO PHOTO ENFORCEMENT!
