Comments for Public Posting: Despite a flurry of last minute negative comments and a number of unanswered questions the City Council has moved forward to approve the automated enforced traffic speed systems. The response to the mass hysteria and pandering for votes was too much to resist. So now the period begins in which people become aware, again, of the way in which these systems are a cruel hoax. As the operating corporation uses their proprietary software to assure a sufficient number of citations are created (false positives) to fund the payments from the city for their lease, maintenance and the backroom operations the anger and hatred of these systems will grow. From previous experience with these systems I know that the backroom operation can be correctly described as a "boiler room". The very careful controls that were written will not be worth the paper they are printed on. No systems of compliance were considered. And on and on. You have ignored history and now you are doomed to repeat it. I do see a bright side to this however. As the cruel hoax of these systems becomes apparent to people it will "clean house" at City Hall. With the enhanced methods of communication that are available today I would estimate 2 to 3 years. Let me say it again, the very people who support these systems today will be voting you out of office tomorrow. You have only yourselves to blame. I will be there to say "I told you so, I told you so and I told you so".

Comments for Public Posting: First a question: Are civil speeding violations reported to insurance companies? Second, a comment: The proposed location at Streetlight 79191 is misplaced. Please evaluate locations further east/south on Foothill Blvd, between Mt. Gleason and Tujunga Canyon Blvd. where speeding is much more prevalent.

Comments for Public Posting: It is unbelievable that LA is installing speed cameras after the previous debacle with red light cameras. Drivers will pay attention to the cameras instead of their surroundings. This reeks of being a revenue-generating scheme despite claims to the contrary.
