Comments for Public Posting: It's about time that action was done on this issue. 25 years this law has been in place and the city is doing nothing. Why is it ok to break the law in this instance? These are able-bodied men who can pick up a broom or a rake, but instance use something that creates so much noise, and pushes dust into my apartment, dust into the air, fumes into the air. Why is it ok to dump into the air but not the water? Air pollution is the worst in LA but this city doesn't do anything about it. Banning these devices are an easy fix. I see little old ladies using brooms to pick up leaves, why can't these grown men do the same thing? This is a symbol of how the rich also cause more pollution than anyone else. People who are poor don't hire landscapers to use gas leaf blowers, these are people with money. Also people who are poor aren't making their landscaping look like a castle in the UK. They let the land grow. We don't need more pollution and waste. We need the law to be applied equally and pollution needs to be stopped.
