Comments for Public Posting: I live on the beach near where PlayadelRey beach transitions into Dockweiler. Many homeless tent dwellers cluster around the public restroom. Families who should be able to enjoy our beautiful public beach without fear must walk past dicey people to use the restrooms. Dads stand guard outside the women's while a daughter or partner uses the facility. One man regularly set up a dwelling and junk yard right on the edge of Vista del Mar. I'm told every few days he has an episode and and throws rocks at passing cars; smashing the window of one passerby. Periodically the camps are cleared for "clean up" but the dwellers return and set up the next day. The Grants Pass ruling should be used to cite and compel these people to move from the vicinity of public recreational facilities
