Jacques	Karen	95811	Artificial turf made from plastic should not be used anywhere. We already have a plastics crisis with micro-plastics everywhere including in our bodies. Plastic is made from extremely toxic materials and, plastic grass will be just add to the toxic mess that has to be cleaned up in a fire. Burnt, degraded plastic is one of the reasons that the Palisades and Altadena remain so toxic after the first and require expert clean-up. Given all this, I am shocked that the use of artificial turf has even been proposed	2025-11-03 19:28:21 ET
Hinton	Susan	95050	Besides reasons highlighted above, burning plastic results in lasting poisonous particulates & gases. Though no one knows if there will ever be urban fire on the scale of this year's earlier set, it's possible to prevent off-gassing of devastating poisons by growing drought tolerant grasses in place of acres of plastic. Then, should there be another fire, you would look like a genius.	2025-11-02 23:19:54 ET

Fox	Laurel	94027	We recently visited our former street that was ravaged by the Palisades fire. Amidst the healing ocean breeze, we were overwhelmed by the noxious smell from the plastic playground recently installed at the Palisades Recreation Center. This is a travesty! Please please please after all this community has endured, replace this plastic with natural materials and stop all efforts to use artificial, potentially toxic materials in play areas. Thank you so much!	2025-10-27 15:26:47 ET
Mehrotra	Siddharth	93012	Alternatively, rather than turf, artificial or natural, the Park should be planted in native flowering plants including, but not limited to encelia, coreopsis, verbenas, milkweed, marigold, sunflower, coral-bushes, blue sage, lantana, butterfly-bush, Matilija poppy, California poppy, lavenders, sage, and flowering trees, with little or no chemical crop-protection, so as to attract pollinating hummingbirds and butterflies.	2025-11-04 14:39:58 ET

Cummings	James	92263	Artificial turf is toxic, it melts, it contaminates people, soil & all sentient creatures. We do not need or want synthetic substances in our parks & recreation areas. It goes against the whole concept of a park. Natural beauty comes from living flora & fauna, not repurposed petroleum products. Temporarily located out of area as our 90272 property is uninhabitable in part from electronic gear & substances vaporized on January 7.	2025-10-23 00:32:43 ET

Hume	Suzanne	92054	CleanEarth4Kids.org asks you to reject all uses of synthetic turf/artificial grass. Doctors, nurses, health professionals, children’s health organizations, public health organizations, researchers, and the public are deeply concerned with the toxic and carcinogenic chemicals, heavy metals like lead and cadmium, benzene, Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons (PAHs), phthalates, styrene, Volatile Organic Compounds (VOCs) and per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS) are found in the plastic blades, backing, underlayment pads and in some plant based infills added to keep the blades upright., Synthetic Turf/Artificial Grass is PLASTIC Synthetic turf/artificial grass is made of mixed plastics, such as polyethylene, polypropylene, nylon, and more. Over 16,000 chemicals are used in plastics, with at least 4,200 (26%) being chemicals that are highly hazardous to human health and the environment, yet only 980 have been regulated anywhere around the world. All major plastic types tested leached hazardous chemicals, including food packaging, which alone can contain over 400 chemicals of concern. Additionally, there is little to no hazard information available for over 10,000 of these chemicals. Chemicals commonly found in plastics, like PFAS and phthalates, can impair reproduction, growth, and cognition. Children are the most vulnerable due to developmental windows, more rapid metabolism, respiratory rates, cardiac output, and greater caloric intake per pound. Chemicals in plastics have been linked to childhood obesity, hyperactivity, ADHD, low IQ, and asthma. Unborn children are especially vulnerable to toxic exposures from plastics in utero, which can “increase risks of prematurity, stillbirth, birth defects in the reproductive organs, neurodevelopmental impairment, impaired lung growth, and childhood cancer.” There are many highly toxic chemicals found in synthetic turf, with phthalates and PFAS being some of the most studied. Dangers of Phthalates Phthalates are typically added to most plastics to make them pliable and are commonly found in plastic grass., Phthalates are known to disrupt the endocrine system and be neurotoxic. Men with higher phthalate levels have a higher risk of cardiovascular disease and type 2 diabetes. In midlife and postmenopause, women, phthalates can lead to increased body fat, a higher BMI, and increased waist circumference. Phthalates can also cause increased rates of hot flashes. Phthalates are linked to birth defects, infertility, miscarriages, as well as other neurological issues during child development, and can harm the endocrine system., Women exposed to phthalates during pregnancy are at greater risk of preterm delivery. Human studies have determined that in-utero phthalate exposure can cause later development of type II diabetes, insulin resistance, obesity, asthma, and higher systolic blood pressure. Female offspring are more likely to experience reproductive problems, including pregnancy loss, low birth weight infants, preterm birth, and earlier menopause. Other human studies have linked phthalates to impaired motor skills in children and delayed language development. In male adults, a reduction in sperm quality and quantity has also been observed. PFAS in Synthetic Turf/Artificial Grass PFAS are used to aid the extrusion of plastic yarns for the “grass” blades. Every plastic grass field tested has been found to contain toxic PFAS, with industry stating plastic grass can not be made without PFAS. Turf companies claiming their product is PFAS-free are intentionally misrepresenting their data. There is no safe level of PFAS! PFAS can be absorbed into the body from skin contact with synthetic turf/ artificial grass. PFAS (perfluoroalkyl and poly-fluoroalkyl substances) are a class of almost 15,000 synthetic (man-made) chemicals found in many products like artificial grass/synthetic turf, food packaging, waterproofing sprays, household	2025-10-24 21:58:45 ET

Baines	Helen	90403	Why would you force taxpayers to cover the cost of toxic, leaching artificial grass into our beautiful environment? Would you advocate for 10,000 dyed green plastic bags on the field? That is what you are proposing. It kills the environment below it, leaches chemicals into the soil, air and water, and it gets so hot it heats the environment and has to be hosed down to clean it and cool it off. Haven't we had enough environmental disasters? What a hideous idea.	2025-10-31 02:17:57 ET

Bromberg	Alisa	90211	As a local pediatrician, I see more injuries and heat related morbidities with artificial turf than with natural organic grass; grass stays cooler during the year, provides a more natural ecosystem and is overall a more beneficial and healthy solution for the environment than with the artificial grass contributing to overall warming and toxicity in the atmosphere. As an aside, all our natural front yard grass was the only thing that remained of our home after the fire; the artificial turf in neighboring areas was completely destroyed.	2025-11-16 23:28:47 ET

Our community opposes turf for parks. It takes the city years to address the sprinkler systems at parks. I imagine ripped-up turf will never be addressed. What would serve out community is a Sports Complex upgrades. Upgrading a park into a sports complex involves construction and renovation projects, including new facilities like gyms and pools, upgraded existing sports fields, and enhanced amenities such as lighting, parking, and accessibility. Specific examples include the Rancho Cienega Sports Complex in Los Angeles, which is building new indoor facilities, and El Dorado Park in Long Beach, which is renovating its sports fields.	2025-10-26 11:15:43 ET

Steinberg	Ingrid	90034	As past president of Resilient Palisades, and with a 14 year old kid who trained with AYSO soccer on that field when he was younger, and who has subsequently received serious lifelong injuries as a direct result of playing on turf, I strongly urge the community to keep the Rec Center Baseball field grass, for our kids' health, and to preserve the special feel of the Palisades, and of that park as a gathering place for the community.	2025-11-17 20:31:46 ET

Doherty	Joe	90034	I grew up on those fields in the 60s and 70s, and I've played on artificial turf as an adult baseball player until a couple of years ago. Children need to touch grass, to run and slide and roll in it. Artificial turf allows none of that.	2025-11-29 07:10:48 ET

Corona	Aurora	90015	Astro Turf is the worst thing we could use for our parks & green space. You are rolling out a plastic toxic carpet and destroying the microorganism that live in the earth's soil. It contributes to the heat island effect, leaches carcinogens in landfills. It's non-recyclable and sheds lot of microplastic. It is unsafe for for everyone!!!	2025-11-17 20:15:28 ET
Corona	Aurora	90015	Say no to Artificial Turf! Artificial turf may look green, but it's far from sustainable. Unlike living grass, it doesn't cool the air, filter pollutants, or provide habitat for pollinators. Instead, it traps heat—raising ground temperatures dramatically—and sheds microplastics into our soil and waterways. It also requires regular cleaning with chemicals, and when it wears out, it ends up in landfills. Choosing native plants or real grass supports biodiversity, reduces urban heat, and creates healthier, more resilient communities.	2025-12-09 09:58:52 ET
