Comments for Public Posting: when you live in LA in the 2020s the first thing you must do is completely terminate the idea that your city council, local government officials, mayor, and governor give a care about the citizens who live here. they 100% do not and despite all their social media posts and promises, they seem to never come through with bettering the livelihoods of the people who live here. The only way you are heard or respected in Los Angeles is if you are a billionaire who resides outside of the state of California completely, then you hold all the power. I'm critical of Los Angeles' government because I live here, I pay my taxes, and I want better for the city. I shouldn't have to "just move away", our local government should be the one to change and have some follow-through and respect for the human who choose to fight to continue living in and loving this city. Our leaders have let Los Angeles fall to into utter despair, meanwhile local business owners and our neighbors try so hard to create community and keep their dignity in a town that constantly disrespects them. To destroy a landmark and with zero plans for reconstruction or revival is wrong, and against the law. You're playing right into the hands of a billionaire's strategic workaround which benefits only him and destroys our city. Our landmarks, our history, must be protected and preserved.
