Comments for Public Posting: I am a resident of Little Tokyo, and I support this development. I know there are some who are understandably worried about new development's impact on a neighborhood with an important cultural history. I support all efforts to preserve Japanese American institutions, but I don't think blocking new housing is the right way to go. We need more housing, and my understanding is that this development would include many affordable units as well as market-rate units. Let's allow more people to live in LA, close to jobs.
