Comments for Public Posting: Letter of Support for Travis Miller TLC Ventures and Realty Group Application No. LA-R-26-311850 To the Los Angeles City Council: My name is Jeremy Briscoe, and I grew up with Travis Miller. I am writing to express my strong support for Travis and to speak to his character, generosity, and commitment to helping others. I was diagnosed with epilepsy as a child, which made finding and maintaining employment difficult. At one point, I was sleeping on my mother's couch in her one-bedroom apartment when Travis reached out and offered me a job. Travis did much more than provide me with employment. He helped me obtain medical insurance and pushed me to see a doctor so I could receive medical clearance and obtain my driver's license for the first time. He also provided me with a vehicle to use until I could afford one of my own. Because Travis believed in me and gave me an opportunity, my life has changed significantly. I now work as a security supervisor, have saved a substantial amount of money, established excellent credit, and met the love of my life. His support helped me achieve stability, independence, and a future I once struggled to imagine. I am sharing my story because it reflects the kind of person Travis is. He does not simply talk about helping people - he takes meaningful action and gives people opportunities to improve their lives. I believe his character, leadership, and compassion will be an asset to the community in which he operates. I respectfully ask the Los Angeles City Council to support the cannabis dispensary license for Travis Miller and TLC Ventures and Realty Group, Application No. LA-R-26-311850. Sincerely, Jeremy Briscoe

Letter of Support for Travis Miller

TLC Ventures and Realty Group
Application No. LA-R-26-311850

To the Los Angeles City Council:

My name is Jeremy Briscoe, and I grew up with Travis Miller. I am writing to express my strong support for Travis and to speak to his character, generosity, and commitment to helping others.

I was diagnosed with epilepsy as a child, which made finding and maintaining employment difficult. At one point, I was sleeping on my mother's couch in her one-bedroom apartment when Travis reached out and offered me a job.

Travis did much more than provide me with employment. He helped me obtain medical insurance and pushed me to see a doctor so I could receive medical clearance and obtain my driver's license for the first time. He also provided me with a vehicle to use until I could afford one of my own.

Because Travis believed in me and gave me an opportunity, my life has changed significantly. I now work as a security supervisor, have saved a substantial amount of money, established excellent credit, and met the love of my life. His support helped me achieve stability, independence, and a future I once struggled to imagine.

I am sharing my story because it reflects the kind of person Travis is. He does not simply talk about helping people - he takes meaningful action and gives people opportunities to improve their lives. I believe his character, leadership, and compassion will be an asset to the community in which he operates.

I respectfully ask the Los Angeles City Council to support the cannabis dispensary license for Travis Miller and TLC Ventures and Realty Group, Application No. LA-R-26-311850.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Briscoe
